Stanislau Zbyszko, Polish wrestler, wins a match against "Big Wayne" Munn in two straight falls. And Zbyszko is aged 56.

His power helps you to understand how "the old man" in the cave days could drive the young men away from the valley and over the mountains to seek their fortunes and their wives, keeping the young women for himself and thus preventing too much inbreeding.

If men today led a sane life they would be stronger at 60 than at any earlier age physically as well as mentally.

Whatever you think of old-fashioned miracles, you can't dispute the miracles of science. A doctor consulted by a patient a thousand miles away ordered an X-ray of the patient's hand. In seven minutes the X-ray photograph of the hand, showing the bones, cartilages, etc., was sent over the telephone wire from the patient in New York to the doctor in Chicago.

Suppose anybody had predicted that 50 years ago and 200 years ago. If the thing had been done, everybody concerned would have been locked up accused of witchcraft.

Russell Scott, a very young man, would have been executed in Chicago today except for a postponement. While waiting to be executed, Scott was working at a crossword puzzle and working the dials of a radio machine, smoking cigarets to soothe himself.

A stock and bond salesman, before he took to robbery and murder as a shortcut to wealth, this young man puzzles reporters. He refuses religious consolation, telling sisters of charity that call on him:

"You know, sisters, I am afraid I have read too much. If I have any religion, it is that of Darwinism."

A Mohammedan would urge this young man to turn to Allah, as his [illegible] prophet. A primitive Patagonian would advise him to make his peace with Setebas. And, a man from Tibet would tell him to rely on the Dalai Llama, and a good "prayer mill."

Many good men will say, "Ah, Darwinism; there you have the secret of the young man's downfall."

Darwin, however, never committed robbery or murder, and didn't recommend either. The trouble with this young man is not too much reading or knowing too much, but too little reading and knowing too little.

Our great fleet of battleships, cruisers, etc., is carrying on "mimic warfare" in the Pacific ocean. The theory is that somebody is trying to take the Hawaiian islands from us and we are trying to prevent it.

Theoretically, our great battleships that cost 50 or 60 million dollars apiece, and become almost immediately obsolete, are winning wonderful victories over the imaginary enemy.

If we really had a war in the Pacific and some well equipped Asiatic power said, "You won't let us have a slice of California, so we take Hawaii," what would really happen?

The imaginary Asiatic power possessing common sense and modern flying machines, both of which our army and navy lack, would send over flying machines, sink our glorious fifty-million-dollar battleships, cruisers and other floating junk.

Then, under protecting "barrage" from the sky, they would send troops and more flyers and planes in big freight ships and ask: "What are you going to do about it?"

The Chicago public library seeks to discourage the reading of trash, and that is useful, if you define correctly the word "trash." Young minds like young stomachs need food easily absorbed. You don't feed tough beefsteak to a six months' old baby, or give "hard books" to a 12-year-old child.

Many parents underestimate the intelligence of children, and others don't realize that what a child reads and hears between 7 and 15 years of age, does more than all else, except heredity, to decide the child's future success and value.

A boy or girl of 10 will take more interest in old English ballads, telling about Robin Hood, or the battle of Chevy Chase, than in some trashy "story." A 10-year-old girl will read the story of Oliver Twist, Ivanhoe, or the good old-fashioned "Little Women." And, such books will make her a better woman and a better mother.

Literary trash is the curse of the young mind today. As food trash is the curse of the stomach.

Doctors announce that prohibition is causing insanity. "Wild bootleg drinking parties are given. They tear down the mental fiber and directly cause insanity."

Prohibitionists presumably will reply, "don't blame prohibition. Anybody that would drink bootleg whisky, must be crazy to begin with."

OHIO ASSEMBLY RE-ENACTS 34 VETOED BILLS

Rides Roughshod Over Governor, Then Quits For Year.

NIGHT SESSION

Expect State Executive to Reject Bible Reading Measure.

COLUMBUS, April 18.—The Ohio general assembly today wound up one of the most colorful sessions in recent years and recessed for all practical purposes until Dec. 31, 1926, the last day if its life.

Writing a clear cut issue of legislative responsibility for the accomplishments of the session and accepting repeated challenges by Governor Donahey, the legislature, in its last session which lasted until 1:55 o'clock this morning, rode roughshod over 34 executive vetoes of important Republican program measures. Passed the Buchanan Bible bill to the governor and enacted relatively few new bills.

Several perfunctory sessions will be necessary next week to permit signing by presiding officers of bills passed in the last flurry, but officially the general assembly has finished with legislation. The fate of the Bible bill, center of repeated battles, rests with Gov. Donahey. He is expected to veto the measure but the legislature does not propose to return to act on the veto.

Legislators Return Home.

Legislators as they prepared to leave for their homes were discussing what further action might be expected by Gov. Donahey in his fight against the

Vacation Bible School Will be Ministers' Topic

Plans for a daily vacation Bible school will be discussed at a meeting of the Ministerial association, which will be held in the Y. M. C. A. at 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Rev. Dr. Frank G. Fowler and Rev. L. J. Davison, who conferred with the board of education Thursday night regarding the proposed classes in religious instruction in the schools next year, will make a report.

Dr. Fowler will read a paper reviewing the book, "Jesus Christ and the Human Quest."

Emmons-Carpenter Measure Put on Statute Books Over Veto of Gov. Donahey as Legislature Recesses.

ABOLISHES FIVE JUSTICE COURTS

Mayor is Relieved of Duty of Hearing Police Cases, While Civil Actions Under $1,500 May be Tried Here.

Overriding the veto of Governor A. V. Donahey, who twice disapproved the measure, the state legislature, last night, re-passed the Emmons-Carpenter bill, providing for the establishment of a municipal court in East Liverpool on January 1, 1926.

The house of representatives adopted the measure by a vote of 91 to 12, late yesterday afternoon. The bill was then rushed to the senate where Senator Harry Carpenter was successful in having it placed on the "jitney" calendar and also passed by an overwhelming majority.

The measure becomes a law in 90 days.

Abolishes Justice Courts.

The bill abolishes four of the five justice of the peace courts in Liverpool township and the mayor's court in the municipality on next December 31. The commission of Justice C. W. Powell does not expire for two years. It is likely that Attorney General Crabbe will be asked to make a ruling as to whether or not this commission will be effective after the new court becomes operative.

Two of the four justices who retire this year—William M. Hill and Miss Maud Gill—were appointed to fill unexpired terms. The commissions of the other two—J. H. Burgess and P.

EMMONS BILLS ARE APPROVED

Two bills fathered by State Representative Ralph W. Emmons, of East Rochester, were passed over the veto of Governor Donahey yesterday.

The senate, by a vote of 30 to 0, approved a measure, which authorizes the appointment of deputies in various parts of counties to issue hunters' licenses.

By the terms of the bill, the county auditor would be empowered to name township and village clerks deputy license clerks.

The other measure adopted was the East Liverpool municipal court proposal.

STORM ZONE GETS CHECK FOR $517

W. E. Dunlap, cashier at the First National bank and treasurer of the East Liverpool chapter of the American Red Cross, has forwarded a check for $517 to the national Red Cross, representing East Liverpool's contribution for the relief in the mid-western tornado.

The money was collected through voluntary subscriptions after Governor Donahey had appealed to the Red Cross to assist in raising relief funds.

BULGARS' HARSH ACTION CURBS REBELS AFTER SOFIA TRAGEDY

Communist Outbreak Suppressed Following Killing of 150.

NATION MOURNS

Further Revolutionary Attempt is Believed Unlikely.

LONDON, April 18—The British foreign office announced today the allies had granted permission to the Bulgarian government to recruit 3,600 additional soldiers to handle the situation at Sofia. Unofficial reports placed the total dead at 160. Police were patrolling the streets.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 18.—Bulgaria's harsh measures to suppress the Communist outbreak planned to follow the bombing of the Sveti Kral cathedral here, in which 150 persons were killed, apparently were successful today.

Although great excitement still prevailed throughout the country, the immediate declaration of a military rule and mobilization of all armed forces to guard against a radical uprising had effectually prevented further disorders, according to reports from all sections. It was believed a further revolutionary attempt was unlikely.

Increase Army Strength.

The tragedy which claimed such a toll of lives at the cathedral during the funeral services for General Gheorghieff, himself the victim of an assassin's bullet, appeared to have solidified the nation.

Premier Tsankoff made an appeal

TWO SERVICES IN TABERNACLE

Dr. Biederwolf and Rev. C. F. Swift to Speak Sunday.

"The Old Fashioned Home" will be the theme of Dr. W. E. Biederwolf, evangelist and author of Monticello, Ind., when he returns for a final service in the Second and Washington street tabernacle on Sunday evening.

As was the custom during the six-week service he held here last fall the big choir that then functioned, again congregating for the purpose, will contribute a service of song.

Hymns utilized during the recent campaign will be sung from books that were then used and which are still in possession of the singers.

Dr. Biederwolf, preaching en route here, will arrive in the city tonight. He will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Faulk of Sixth and Jefferson streets during his stay here.

In the faternoon of Sunday Rev. C. F. Swift, of Pittsburgh, member of the Pennsylvania legislature, will speak in the tabernacle. His subject will be "Pillars and Perils of Democracy."

The afternoon service will begin at 3 o'clock and that in the evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Evening services will be dispensed with in the majority of East Liverpool churches on Sunday night so that the members may again hear the evangelist.

Woman Is Injured When Run Down By D. O. Webb's Auto

Miss Odessie Owen Struck by Car at Fifth and Washington Streets as She Attempts to Cross.

Miss Odessie Owen, aged about 28, of 135 Mulberry street, is in the City hospital suffering from a fracture of the right wrist and bruises and cuts about the face and shoulders, as a result of being run down by an automobile driven by D. O. Webb, Avondale street, at the corner of Fifth and Washington streets, at 2:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Webb, who was traveling west on Fifth street, who had stopped in front of the new Potters' National bank to permit a River road bus, headed north on Washington street, to pass, started his machine just as Miss Owen attempted to cross Fifth street from Erlanger's to the Ogilvie store.

The woman was caught by one fender of the car and dragged several feet. Webb, with the assistance of bystanders, placed the woman in the car and took her to the hospital, where she was attended by Dr. C. H. Bailey.

Patrolman William Lister made an investigation of the accident and went to the hospital where he obtained Webb's story. Webb later went to the city hall, where he reported the accident.

An X-ray examination of Miss Owen's injuries was made this morning.

Coleman and Cullom Protest W. H. Palmer's Citizenship Plea

The citizenship application of William Henry Palmer, an employee of the C. C. Thompson pottery, was heard in naturalization court, Lisbon, yesterday, but the case was continued until next fall.

Objections to Palmer's application were filed with the department of justice by Frank Coleman and William Cullom, who, it is said, formerly worked for Palmer at the Thompson pottery.

Two witnesses were called, both of whom testified as to the good character of Palmer. Coleman said that Palmer had made the statement in his presence that the "courts and laws of the United States are no good."

Dorsey Beaver, who was also called as a witness against the applicant, failed to appear.

POSSE ON TRAIL

Robbery Occurs as Man Walks Along Country Road.

Sheriff Albert Tope of New Cumberland, and a posse of deputies today are searching for a lone bandit who last night held up and robbed Hosea Tinney, farmer, residing at Brownsdale, five miles west of Newell, escaping with $430 in cash after knocking the victim unconscious with a blow over the head with a heavy sandbag.

Bandit Was Armed

Tinney said he was approached by the highwayman while walking along a country road to his home from Steubenville. A gun was thrust in his face, he said, and before he could comply with the command to throw up his hands, the man struck him over the head. Regaining consciousness, he walked to the home of a near by farmer, William Thomas, who reported the affair to the sheriff.

Sheriff Tope was furnished with a description of the man by Tinney and he at once asked police in other towns of Hancock county to be on the lookout for the thug.

TRUE STORY OF PAUL REVERE'S RIDE UPSETS DETAILS OF POPULAR LEGENDS ON 150TH ANNIVERSARY

Was it the American-born wife of the British commander, General Thomas Gage, who upset her husband's secret plans to swoop down on Lexington, by warning the patriots, thus paving the way for Paul Revere's famous ride?

There is historical foundation for the assertion, which is again being discussed by historians of the American Revolution as the nation observes the 150th anniversary of the battle of Lexington.

One of the earliest accounts of the affair says "A daughter of liberty sent word by a trusty hand to Mr. Samuel Adams, residing in company with Mr. (John) Hancock, about 13 miles from Charlestown, that the troops were coming out in a few days.' Several historical writers confirm the belief that this "daughter of liberty' was Mrs. Gage, who was the daughter of Peter Kembel, president of the council of New Jersey.

Relative to what followed, what can be more interesting or authentic than Paul Revere's own written narrative?

(The reader will note many differences between this account and the popular version of Longfellow's poem. For instance, Dawes was well on his way over a much longer route through Brookline before Revere started).

"The Saturday night preceding the 19th of April, about 12 o'clock at night, the boats belonging to the transports were all launched, and carried under the sterns of the men-of-war. We likewise found that the grenadiers and light infantry were all taken off duty.

The Truth About the Lights.

"From these movements we expected something serious was to be transacted. On Tuesday evening, the 18th, it was observed that a number of soldiers were marching toward the bottom of the common. About 10 o'clock, Dr. Warren sent in great haste for me, and begged that I would immediately set off for Lexington, where Messrs. Hancock and Adams were, and acquaint them of the movement, and that it was thought they were the object. When I got to Dr. Warren's home I found he had sent an express by land to Lexington—a Mr. William Dawes. The Sunday before, by desire of Dr. Warren, I had been to Lexington, to Messrs. Hancock and Adams, who were at the Rev. Mr. Clark's. I returned at night through Charlestown; there I agreed with a Colonel Conant and some other gentlemen that if the British were out by water we would show two lanterns in the North Church steeple; and if by land, one as a signal; for we were apprehensive it would be difficult to cross the Charles river. I left Dr. Warren, called upon a friend, and desired him to make the signals. I then went home, took my boots and surtout, went to the north part of the town, where I kept a boat; two friends rowed me across the Charles river a little to the eastward where the Somerset man-of-war lay.

DAWES, PERSHING BOSTON GUESTS

BOSTON, April 18.—Vice President Charles G. Dawes held the center of interest today as the preliminaries of the 150th celebration of the battle of Lexington got under way.

He was recognized by the downtown crowds as he made his way to call on Governor Fuller and Mayor Curley and attend a Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

General John J. Pershing was scheduled to accompany the vice president, but the time of his arrival was postponed until tomorrow.

This evening in historic old North church, from the belfry of which Paul Revere saw the lights twinkle, a municipal observance was scheduled.

It was then young flood, the ship was winding, and the moon was rising.

"They landed me on the Charlestown side. When I got into town, I met Colonel Conant and several others; they said they had seen our signals."

Revere did not have to wait for the signals to be "flashed from the signal tower;" the inference is that they had been displayed and extinguished before he reached the Charlestown side.

A Pleasant Ride.

"I set off upon a very good horse; it was then about 11 o'clock, and very pleasant. After I had passed Charlestown Neck, and got nearly opposite where Mark was hung in chains, I saw two men on horseback under a tree. When I got near them I discovered they were British officers. One tried to get ahead of me, and the other to take me. I turned my horse very quick and galloped toward Charlestown Neck, and then pushed for the Medford road. The one who chased me, endeavoring to cut me off, got into a clay pond, near where the new tavern is now built; I got clear of him, and went through Medford, over the bridge, and up to Monotony. In Medford I awakened the captain of the Minutemen, and after that I alarmed almost every house till I got to Lexington.

"I found Messrs. Hancock and Adams at the Rev. Mr. Clark's; I told them my errand, and inquired for Mr. Dawes; they said he had not been there; I related the story of the two officers, and supposed that he must have been stopped, as he ought to have been there before me. After I had been there about half an hour Mr. Dawes came; we refreshed ourselves, and set off for Concord to secure the stores, etc., there.

"We were overtaken by a young Dr. Prescott, whom we found to be a high Son of Liberty. I told them of the 10 officers that Mr. Davens met, and that it was probable we might be stopped before we got to Concord; for I supposed that after night they divided themselves; and that two of them had fixed themselves in such passages as were most likely to stop any intelligence going to Concord. I likewise mentioned that we had better alarm all the inhabitants till we got to Concord; the young doctor much approved it, and said he would stop with either of us, for the people between that and Concord knew him and would give the more credit to what we said. We had got nearly half way; Mr. Dawes and the doctor stopped to alarm the people of a house; I was about 100 rods ahead,

By the terms of the bill, the county auditor would be empowered to name township and village clerks deputy license clerks.

BULGARS' HARSH ACTION CURBS REBELS AFTER SOFIA TRAGEDY

Communist Outbreak Suppressed Following Killing of 150.

NATION MOURNS

Further Revolutionary Attempt is Believed Unlikely.

LONDON, April 18—The British foreign office announced today the allies had granted permission to the Bulgarian government to recruit 3,600 additional soldiers to handle the situation at Sofia. Unofficial reports placed the total dead at 160. Police were patrolling the streets.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 18.—Bulgaria's harsh measures to suppress the Communist outbreak planned to follow the bombing of the Sveti Kral cathedral here, in which 150 persons were killed, apparently were successful today.

Although great excitement still prevailed throughout the country, the immediate declaration of a military rule and mobilization of all armed forces to guard against a radical uprising had effectually prevented further disorders, according to reports from all sections. It was believed a further revolutionary attempt was unlikely.

Increase Army Strength.

The tragedy which claimed such a toll of lives at the cathedral during the funeral services for General Gheorghieff, himself the victim of an assassin's bullet, appeared to have solidified the nation.

Woman Is Injured When Run Down By D. O. Webb's Auto

Miss Odessie Owen Struck by Car at Fifth and Washington Streets as She Attempts to Cross.

Miss Odessie Owen, aged about 28, of 135 Mulberry street, is in the City hospital suffering from a fracture of the right wrist and bruises and cuts about the face and shoulders, as a result of being run down by an automobile driven by D. O. Webb, Avondale street, at the corner of Fifth and Washington streets, at 2:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Webb, who was traveling west on Fifth street, who had stopped in front of the new Potters' National bank to permit a River road bus, headed north on Washington street, to pass, started his machine just as Miss Owen attempted to cross Fifth street from Erlanger's to the Ogilvie store.

The woman was caught by one fender of the car and dragged several feet. Webb, with the assistance of bystanders, placed the woman in the car and took her to the hospital, where she was attended by Dr. C. H. Bailey.

Patrolman William Lister made an investigation of the accident and went to the hospital where he obtained Webb's story. Webb later went to the city hall, where he reported the accident.

An X-ray examination of Miss Owen's injuries was made this morning.

A gun was thrust in his face, he said, and before he could comply with the command to throw up his hands, the man struck him over the head. Regaining consciousness, he walked to the home of a near by farmer, William Thomas, who reported the affair to the sheriff.

TRUE STORY OF PAUL REVERE'S RIDE UPSETS DETAILS OF POPULAR LEGENDS ON 150TH ANNIVERSARY

Was it the American-born wife of the British commander, General Thomas Gage, who upset her husband's secret plans to swoop down on Lexington, by warning the patriots, thus paving the way for Paul Revere's famous ride?

There is historical foundation for the assertion, which is again being discussed by historians of the American Revolution as the nation observes the 150th anniversary of the battle of Lexington.

One of the earliest accounts of the affair says "A daughter of liberty sent word by a trusty hand to Mr. Samuel Adams, residing in company with Mr. (John) Hancock, about 13 miles from Charlestown, that the troops were coming out in a few days.' Several historical writers confirm the belief that this "daughter of liberty' was Mrs. Gage, who was the daughter of Peter Kembel, president of the council of New Jersey.

Relative to what followed, what can be more interesting or authentic than Paul Revere's own written narrative?

(The reader will note many differences between this account and the popular version of Longfellow's poem. For instance, Dawes was well on his way over a much longer route through Brookline before Revere started).

"The Saturday night preceding the 19th of April, about 12 o'clock at night, the boats belonging to the transports were all launched, and carried under the sterns of the men-of-war. We likewise found that the grenadiers and light infantry were all taken off duty.

The Truth About the Lights.

"From these movements we expected something serious was to be transacted. On Tuesday evening, the 18th, it was observed that a number of soldiers were marching toward the bottom of the common. About 10 o'clock, Dr. Warren sent in great haste for me, and begged that I would immediately set off for Lexington, where Messrs. Hancock and Adams were, and acquaint them of the movement, and that it was thought they were the object. When I got to Dr. Warren's home I found he had sent an express by land to Lexington—a Mr. William Dawes. The Sunday before, by desire of Dr. Warren, I had been to Lexington, to Messrs. Hancock and Adams, who were at the Rev. Mr. Clark's. I returned at night through Charlestown; there I agreed with a Colonel Conant and some other gentlemen that if the British were out by water we would show two lanterns in the North Church steeple; and if by land, one as a signal; for we were apprehensive it would be difficult to cross the Charles river. I left Dr. Warren, called upon a friend, and desired him to make the signals. I then went home, took my boots and surtout, went to the north part of the town, where I kept a boat; two friends rowed me across the Charles river a little to the eastward where the Somerset man-of-war lay. It was then young flood, the ship was winding, and the moon was rising.

"They landed me on the Charlestown side. When I got into town, I met Colonel Conant and several others; they said they had seen our signals."

Revere did not have to wait for the signals to be "flashed from the signal tower;" the inference is that they had been displayed and extinguished before he reached the Charlestown side.

A Pleasant Ride.

"I set off upon a very good horse; it was then about 11 o'clock, and very pleasant. After I had passed Charlestown Neck, and got nearly opposite where Mark was hung in chains, I saw two men on horseback under a tree. When I got near them I discovered they were British officers. One tried to get ahead of me, and the other to take me. I turned my horse very quick and galloped toward Charlestown Neck, and then pushed for the Medford road. The one who chased me, endeavoring to cut me off, got into a clay pond, near where the new tavern is now built; I got clear of him, and went through Medford, over the bridge, and up to Monotony. In Medford I awakened the captain of the Minutemen, and after that I alarmed almost every house till I got to Lexington.

"I found Messrs. Hancock and Adams at the Rev. Mr. Clark's; I told them my errand, and inquired for Mr. Dawes; they said he had not been there; I related the story of the two officers, and supposed that he must have been stopped, as he ought to have been there before me. After I had been there about half an hour Mr. Dawes came; we refreshed ourselves, and set off for Concord to secure the stores, etc., there.

"We were overtaken by a young Dr. Prescott, whom we found to be a high Son of Liberty. I told them of the 10 officers that Mr. Davens met, and that it was probable we might be stopped before we got to Concord; for I supposed that after night they divided themselves; and that two of them had fixed themselves in such passages as were most likely to stop any intelligence going to Concord. I likewise mentioned that we had better alarm all the inhabitants till we got to Concord; the young doctor much approved it, and said he would stop with either of us, for the people between that and Concord knew him and would give the more credit to what we said. We had got nearly half way; Mr. Dawes and the doctor stopped to alarm the people of a house; I was about 100 rods ahead,

RIGID ECONOMY, COOLIDGE PLEA

Urges Precept by Government in Radio Address.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—By precept and example, the federal government should impress constantly upon the citizenry of the nation the prime importance of efficiency and economy, President Coolidge declares today in a radio address, opening the Women's World far in Chicago.

"If the people, in the daily management of their modest domestic affairs, note that the great interests of their governments and of their semi-public institutions are dealt with in a spirit of laxity and a mood of carelessness," the executive declared, "they find little inspiration to apply better methods in the management of their own concerns.

"The great business operations which are constantly under the public eye ought to be handled so as to make them an example in sound proceedure."

Mr. Collidge's remarks anent the merits of the economy he so strongly preaches were occasioned by the method in which the finances of the fair which he was opening were conducted. Working under a strict budget he told his radio audience the women responsible for the exposition had been enabled to open the doors with every dollar of expense already met and a comfortable margin of profit assured.

"The importance of sound business methods was never so great as it is today," he said, "and it is particularly true that government business should be placed on a basis of rigid economy."

present make-up of the state utilities commission, following rejection by the senate of his appointees. Little doubt was entertained but that the governor would renew the fight as soon as he determined upon a course of action.

The wind-up session was humdrum, the Republican machine working smoothly in passing measures agreed upon and in over-riding those vetoed acts which the majority had determined to enact into law. Sergeants-at-arms were posted at the doors of both houses throughout the night. Members were forced to stay until the job was finished. When the two houses recessed, most of them caught early trains for their homes, well satisfied to end their legislative toil.

Important acts of the legislature included among the bills passed over the executive vetoes:

The Brown bill, levying a tax of two cents a gallon gasoline sold for consumption on Ohio highways, receipts of which will be used to build up state, county and city highways.

The six major tax relief bills, including the Dempsey corporation tax bill. All except the Dodd special levy bill and the Krueger standarization bond issue bill were passed over vetoes.

Re-appropriation of $2,019,000 slashed by Gov. Donahey from the general appropriation bill.

Auto Tag Bill in List

The Lipp bill rewriting motor vehicle regulation laws, creating a motor vehicle commissioner, giving county auditors the task of colecting auto tag fees, and permitting a collection fee of 15 cents.

The McCreary-Davidson bill, appropriating $100,000 for investigation by the attorney-general and state utilities commission of proposed telephone state increase.

The Miller bill appropriating $100,000 for an Ohio building at the Philadelphia sesqui-centennial exposition in 1926.

On seven executive vetoes were permitted to stand. These were of unimportant bills and action on them was determined upon before the Republican steam roller went into action.

Two special legislative committees will work during the recess, preparing codifications of the tax and election laws. If the reports are ready next spring, the two houses will be called back into session by leaders to permit enactment of the codes. Otherwise, the 86th general assembly will pass into history.

Attractive stage settings and electrical effects added to the success of the production. The costumes worn by the leading characters and the various groups of assisting artists were especially attractive.

The show was produced under the dircetion of Mrs. Earl C. Darfler, who has been in East Liverpool for the last two weeks. Proceeds of the two performances will be used in financing senior class activities during the graduation week.

True Story

when I saw two men, in nearly the same situation as those officers were, near Charlestown. I called for the doctor and Mr. Dawes to come up; in an instant I was surrounded by four; they had placed themselves in a straight road, that inclined each way; they had taken down a pair of bars on the north side of the road, and two of them were under a tree in the pasture. The doctor, being foremost, he came up, and we tried to get past them; but they being armed with pistols and swords, they forced us into the pasture; the doctor jumped his horse over a low stone wall, and got to Concord."

Revere was captured and questioned, but regained his freedom in time to see the battle.

WHEELER FACES FEDERAL FIRE

Prosecution Unlooses Heavy Guns at Senator's Trial.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., April 18.—The prosecution unloosed the heavy guns in its arsenal today in attempting to convict Senator Burton K. Wheler (Democrat) of Montana in federal court here on charges of illegally accepting a fee to present a client before the Interior department.

The government's attack on Wheeler was the signal for another sharp outbreak of quarreling between opposing counsel, each side frequently trying to block the other's introduction of testimony and manner of interrogating witnesses.

Quickly disposing of formalities and preliminaries of the trial, John L. Slattery, U. S. district attorney, through documents and witnesses, sought directly to prove Wheeler actually was paid by Gordon Campbell, Montana prospector, to handle oil permits before federal authorities.

The defense admitted that Wheeler received $4,000 from Campbell, but insisted that the money was for practice in Montana court only and that Wheeler never agreed to, and actually did not, obtain government oil concessions.

The whole case, therefore, as it shoped up today after two days trial, hinged on whether Wheeler was paid the $4,000 with the understanding that he was to, or did, use his influence after election as senator to help straighten out Campbell's difficulties over permits.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 18.—Motor stocks continued their spectacular upward movement in the short session the stock market today. Shorts in Maxwell B were badly squeezed when the price of that stock was pushed by the bulls to above 89. There was a near panic as the bears rushed into cover short sales made when the reorganization plan was announced and when the stock was selling 25 points lower. Mack Trucks climbed sensationally and reached a new high at 150¾, completing a gain of 30 points on the present more.

While other active motor stocks were fairly active, there was not sufficient demand for them to push them to higher levels. The rally in General Motors, Moon, Packard and other active motor stocks, seemed to have suffered a reaction for the time being but motor accessories, including Fiske Rubber, U. S. Rubber, Strombung Carburetor, etc., moved upward a point or more.

Industrial stocks were strong and active and the oil stocks threw off the reactionary tone which held them back in the last few days. Baldwin Locomotive sold up two points to 117 in the first hour, American Can, U. S. Steel, General Electric moved up a point or more, while Cast Iron Pipe at 159 showed a gain of seven points from yesterday's low.

Further contraction in many lines of industry was reported by the principal trade agencies, which also noted a continued decline in commodity prices. This is most noticeable in the metal markets, where copper, zinc and lead have declined to the lowest price levels for the year to date. Cotton prices retained practically all of yesterday's gains and grain markets were slightly reactionary at the opening.

Prices in every section of the market bounded along to the highest levels for the current movement in the most active Saturday's session in a month or more. Transactions in the first hour aggregation 429,000 shares.

Chicago Grain.

CHICAGO, April 18.—Grains opened practically steady today. Wheat off ⅛ to 1 cent. Corn unchanged to ⅛c down. Oats unchanged to ⅛c down. Opening:

Municipal Court Plan

V. Mackall—expire on December 31.

The passage of the measure ends a fight which began several years ago. Sufficient support was mustered two years ago to have the measure introduced in the legislature, but after passing both the house and the senate it was vetoed by Governor Donahey, who said he opposed the establishment of additional municipal courts until a uniform practices bill could be approved. No attempt was made at that time to pass the measure over the chief executive's veto.

Plan Is Endorsed.

With the endorsement of the Southern Columbiana County Bar association, Chamber of Commerce, Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, Trades and Labor council, the American Legion and other organizations, State Representative Ralph W. Emmons, of East Rochester, introduced the measure at the present session of the assembly. It passed the house and the senate and was sent to the governor. The chief executive rejected the measure, while law makers were in recess.

Through an agreement which Representative Emmons and Senator Carpenter had with legislative leaders, it was promised that should the measure be rejected it would be taken up for passage when the legislature reconvened.

Nearly fifty telegrams to leaders in both the house and senate went out from East Liverpool Wednesday urging the adoption of the measure over the governor's veto. These telegrams were sent out under the signatures of several organizations backing the bill and also business and professional men.

RIGID ECONOMY, COOLIDGE PLEA

Urges Precept by Government in Radio Address.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—By precept and example, the federal government should impress constantly upon the citizenry of the nation the prime importance of efficiency and economy, President Coolidge declares today in a radio address, opening the Women's World far in Chicago.

"If the people, in the daily management of their modest domestic affairs, note that the great interests of their governments and of their semi-public institutions are dealt with in a spirit of laxity and a mood of carelessness," the executive declared, "they find little inspiration to apply better methods in the management of their own concerns.

"The great business operations which are constantly under the public eye ought to be handled so as to make them an example in sound proceedure."

Mr. Collidge's remarks anent the merits of the economy he so strongly preaches were occasioned by the method in which the finances of the fair which he was opening were conducted. Working under a strict budget he told his radio audience the women responsible for the exposition had been enabled to open the doors with every dollar of expense already met and a comfortable margin of profit assured.

"The importance of sound business methods was never so great as it is today," he said, "and it is particularly true that government business should be placed on a basis of rigid economy."

present make-up of the state utilities commission, following rejection by the senate of his appointees. Little doubt was entertained but that the governor would renew the fight as soon as he determined upon a course of action.

The wind-up session was humdrum, the Republican machine working smoothly in passing measures agreed upon and in over-riding those vetoed acts which the majority had determined to enact into law. Sergeants-at-arms were posted at the doors of both houses throughout the night. Members were forced to stay until the job was finished. When the two houses recessed, most of them caught early trains for their homes, well satisfied to end their legislative toil.

Important acts of the legislature included among the bills passed over the executive vetoes:

The Brown bill, levying a tax of two cents a gallon gasoline sold for consumption on Ohio highways, receipts of which will be used to build up state, county and city highways.

The six major tax relief bills, including the Dempsey corporation tax bill. All except the Dodd special levy bill and the Krueger standarization bond issue bill were passed over vetoes.

Re-appropriation of $2,019,000 slashed by Gov. Donahey from the general appropriation bill.

Auto Tag Bill in List

The Lipp bill rewriting motor vehicle regulation laws, creating a motor vehicle commissioner, giving county auditors the task of colecting auto tag fees, and permitting a collection fee of 15 cents.

The McCreary-Davidson bill, appropriating $100,000 for investigation by the attorney-general and state utilities commission of proposed telephone state increase.

The Miller bill appropriating $100,000 for an Ohio building at the Philadelphia sesqui-centennial exposition in 1926.

On seven executive vetoes were permitted to stand. These were of unimportant bills and action on them was determined upon before the Republican steam roller went into action.

Two special legislative committees will work during the recess, preparing codifications of the tax and election laws. If the reports are ready nex tspring, the two houses will be called back into session by leaders to permit enactment of the codes. Otherwise, the 86th general assembly will pass into history.

when I saw two men, in nearly the same situation as those officers were, near Charlestown. I called for the doctor and Mr. Dawes to come up; in an instant I was surrounded by four; they had placed themselves in a straight road, that inclined each way; they had taken down a pair of bars on the north side of the road, and two of them were under a tree in the pasture. The doctor, being foremost, he came up, and we tried to get past them; but they being armed with pistols and swords, they forced us into the pasture; the doctor jumped his horse over a low stone wall, and got to Concord."

Revere was captured and questioned, but regained his freedom in time to see the battle.

WHEELER FACES FEDERAL FIRE

Prosecution Unlooses Heavy Guns at Senator's Trial.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., April 18.—The prosecution unloosed the heavy guns in its arsenal today in attempting to convict Senator Burton K. Wheler (Democrat) of Montana in federal court here on charges of illegally accepting a fee to present a client before the Interior department.

The government's attack on Wheeler was the signal for another sharp outbreak of quarreling between opposing counsel, each side frequently trying to block the other's introduction of testimony and manner of interrogating witnesses.

Quickly disposing of formalities and preliminaries of the trial, John L. Slattery, U. S. district attorney, through documents and witnesses, sought directly to prove Wheeler actually was paid by Gordon Campbell, Montana prospector, to handle oil permits before federal authorities.

The defense admitted that Wheeler received $4,000 from Campbell, but insisted that the money was for practice in Montana court only and that Wheeler never agreed to, and actually did not, obtain government oil concessions.

The whole case, therefore, as it shoped up today after two days trial, hinged on whether Wheeler was paid the $4,000 with the understanding that he was to, or did, use his influence after election as senator to help straighten out Campbell's difficulties over permits.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 18.—Motor stocks continued their spectacular upward movement in the short session the stock market today. Shorts in Maxwell B were badly squeezed when the price of that stock was pushed by the bulls to above 89. There was a near panic as the bears rushed into cover short sales made when the reorganization plan was announced and when the stock was selling 25 points lower. Mack Trucks climbed sensationally and reached a new high at 150¾, completing a gain of 30 points on the present more.

While other active motor stocks were fairly active, there was not sufficient demand for them to push them to higher levels. The rally in General Motors, Moon, Packard and other active motor stocks, seemed to have suffered a reaction for the time being but motor accessories, including Fiske Rubber, U. S. Rubber, Stromburg Carburetor, etc., moved upward a point or more.

Industrial stocks were strong and active and the oil stocks threw off the reactionary tone which held them back in the last few days. Baldwin Locomotive sold up two points to 117 in the first hour, American Can, U. S. Steel, General Electric moved up a point or more, while Cast Iron Pipe at 159 showed a gain of seven points from yesterday's low.

Further contraction in many lines of industry was reported by the principal trade agencies, which also noted a continued decline in commodity prices. This is most noticeable in the metal markets, where copper, zinc and lead have declined to the lowest price levels for the year to date. Cotton prices retained practically all of yesterday's gains and grain markets were slightly reactionary at the opening.

Prices in every section of the market bounded along to the highest levels for the current movement in the most active Saturday's session in a month or more. Transactions in the first hour aggregation 429,000 shares.

Chicago Grain.

CHICAGO, April 18.—Grains opened practically steady today. Wheat off ½ to 1 cent. Corn unchanged to ¼c down. Oats unchanged to ¼c down. Opening:

Wheat — May $1.50½-1.51½; July, $1.41-1.42; September, $1.34½-1.34½.

Corn—May, $1.06; July, $1.10¼-1.10½; September, $1.10-1.10½.

Oats—May, 41½-41¾c; July, 42⅞-43c; September, 42⅞c.

Liberty Bonds.

NEW YORK, April 18. — Liberty bonds opening: 3½s, 101.10; second 4¼s, 101.11; third 4¼s, 101.28; fourth 4¼s, 102.9; new 4½s, 105.11; new 4s, 101.5.

Municipal Court Plan

V. Mackall—expire on December 31.

The passage of the measure ends a fight which began several years ago. Sufficient support was mustered two years ago to have the measure introduced in the legislature, but after passing both the house and the senate it was vetoed by Governor Donahey, who said he opposed the establishment of additional municipal courts until a uniform practices bill could be approved. No attempt was made at that time to pass the measure over the chief executive's veto.

Plan Is Endorsed.

With the endorsement of the Southern Columbiana County Bar association, Chamber of Commerce, Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, Trades and Labor council, the American Legion and other organizations, State Representative Ralph W. Emmons, of East Rochester, introduced the measure at the present session of the assembly. It passed the house and the senate and was sent to the governor. The chief executive rejected the measure, while law makers were in recess.

Through an agreement which Representative Emmons and Senator Carpenter had with legislative leaders, it was promised that should the measure be rejected it would be taken up for passage when the legislature reconvened.

Nearly fifty telegrams to leaders in both the house and senate went out from East Liverpool Wednesday urging the adoption of the measure over the governor's veto. These telegrams were sent out under the signatures of several organizations backing the bill and also business and professional men.

A Hint for Beginners

The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded stop below.

WATER PRESSURE IS INCREASED

Given ample opportunity to test out the new municipal water system as a result of several fires which have occurred since the Yellow creek water has been turned into the city mains, replacing the river source, city firemen and other officials express the opinion that citizens need hold little fear of insufficient water pressure for fire-fighting purposes, a doubt that was freely expressed during the construction of the new system.

Although the dam in Little Yellow creek now impounds water to a depth of a little more than 10 or 12 feet, a pressure of approximately 80 pounds is available at the present time. A recent test made in Eighteenth street showed an increase in pressure of approximately 20 pounds.

P. R. R. LEADS IN NEW PROJECTS

The Yellow Creek "Y," the Canton-Bayard cut-off, the new Panhandle bridge at Steubenville, and the four-track road along the Beaver river near New Brighton, Pa., are four of the construction projects listed as part of the biggest expansion program attempted by railroads in Ohio in many years.

The Pennsylvania's largest improvement in its central region in several years is the cut-off being started between Bayard and Canton. It will cost about $4,500,000 and the fourteen miles of track will save by about the same distance the length of the freight run from Canton, O., on the eastern division, to Cleveland & Pittsburgh division.

The raising of the Cleveland and Pittsburgh division's tracks in Cleveland between Cedar and Holton avenue S. E. will be almost completed by next fall, this year's share of the expense to be about $3,500,000.

The new "Y" being started at Yellow Creek, O., will cost $900,000. It will eliminate the Wellsville transfer.

Not to mention the Cleveland Union terminal, there are track, yard, station, and dock projects under way or authorized within 100 miles of Cleveland, which come to about $18,000,000 in cost. Most of the amount will be spent in 1925.

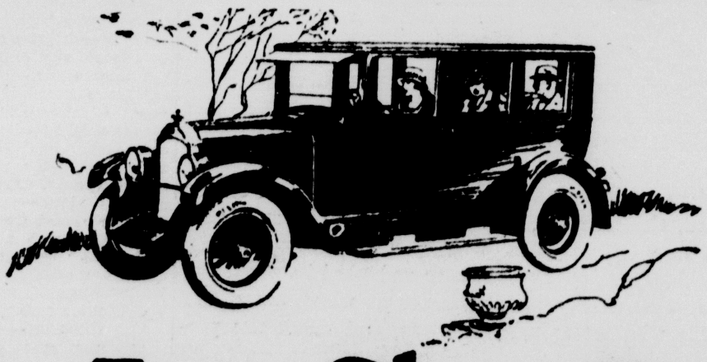

The Pennsylvania is doing by far the largest share of this work so far. Its seven or eight major projects within this territory require the expenditure of more than $13,000,000.

At Toledo the Pennsylvania is finishing $2,000,00 improvements at Wallbridge yards. At Sandusky, O., it is building a coal loading machine. At Ashtabula, O., it is increasing the storage capacity of docks at a cost of $150,000. At Steubenville, O., it is building a new bridge over the Ohio river costing about $1,500,000.

An improvment that will facilitate freight movement from this territory into Pittsburgh is the construction of a four-track railroad along the left bank of the Beaver river near New Brighton, Pa., and this job, with a new bridge over the Beaver is costing $3,500,000.

EAST LIVERPOOL — AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

SATURDAY, APRIL 18, 1925.

Municipal Court Bill Enacted

East Liverpool's proposed municipal court has been established by legislative act.

The bill sponsored by Representative R. W. Emmons, of East Rochester, in the house, and supported by Senator M. Carpenter, in the upper branch, was passed over Gov. A. V. Donahey's veto by the general assembly yesterday afternoon and last night.

The measure, which was approved by Trades and Labor council, Chamber of Commerce, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs and the Southern Columbiana County Bar association as well as scores of civic leaders, was re-enacted by a vote of 91 to 12 in the lower chamber of the legislature. In the upper house, the vote was also overwhelming.

Under the provisions of the legislation, the act becomes operative on Jan. 1 next.

Its enactment means the abolition of five justice of the peace courts in Liverpool township, discontinuance of the mayor's police court and the assignment of civil actions, in which the claims are not in excess of $1,500, to a municipal judge. Its supporters are confident that the court will not only be self-sustaining, but will also be a means of revenue for the city. And, too, it is certain to prove a time saver as well as reduce court costs and traveling expenses of principals in litigation.

And with the measure a law, careful attention should now be given to the selection of the first judge in order that the court may function properly and creditably to its citizenship.

Flivver Parts By Air

Commercial aviation starts. Henry Ford opens a pioneer line from Detroit to Chicago not for passengers but for freight. It will carry Ford mail, Ford money and small Ford parts, to the extent of half a ton per trip.

Thus the Ford Motor company, says Edsel Ford, is merely extending its transportation system. It is not making planes for the purpose, but buying them. It wants to use airplanes along with railroads, motor trucks and steamships in carrying on its great business. Ultimately it expects to have air routes branching from its plants in all directions, for long distances.

The experiment will be watched with all the more interest because some of the aviation sharps lately have been saying that the airplane was not good for freight—only for mail and passengers. Henry Ford has a way of refuting experts and making the impractical possible. If he succeeds, other manufacturers and merchants will follow his example.

Anyway, here is another evidence of the new life suddenly breathed into aviation in this country. On all sides landing fields are being laid out, routes projected and equipment made ready. It is going to be an interesting year for flying.

Baedeker Passes

Millions of people must have heard with a sentimental stirring of old memories the news of Fritz Baedeker's death. He might be called the Henry Ford of travel. He spent his life standardizing and simplifying the art of touring, following in the footsteps of his father, Karl Baedeker. He had been 66 years on the job when he died, the other day, at 81, still working on a new guidebook.

Many individualists deplore Baedeker and what he stood for, as they deplore fivvers. Many do not want to go where everybody else goes, and see what everybody else sees, and think the prescribed thoughts and feel the prescribed emotions common to all the tribe of guidebook devotees. They prefer to go their own way, ignoring the double-starred scenes and buildings and art works if they choose, setting their own pace and making their own selections, and treating themselves to surprises occasionally instead of knowing before hand all they are going to see and being introduced automatically to every new experience.

That, perhaps, is the better way to travel for him who has time and money and ideas of his own about traveling. For the multitude, Baedeker and his kind have done much, enabling them to see, rather easily and quickly, a world that might otherwise have been closed to them. Better a standardized, stereotyped trip to another land, herded with a crowd, than fossilizing at home. And people who like flocking together and having their way smoothed find that the ideal system.

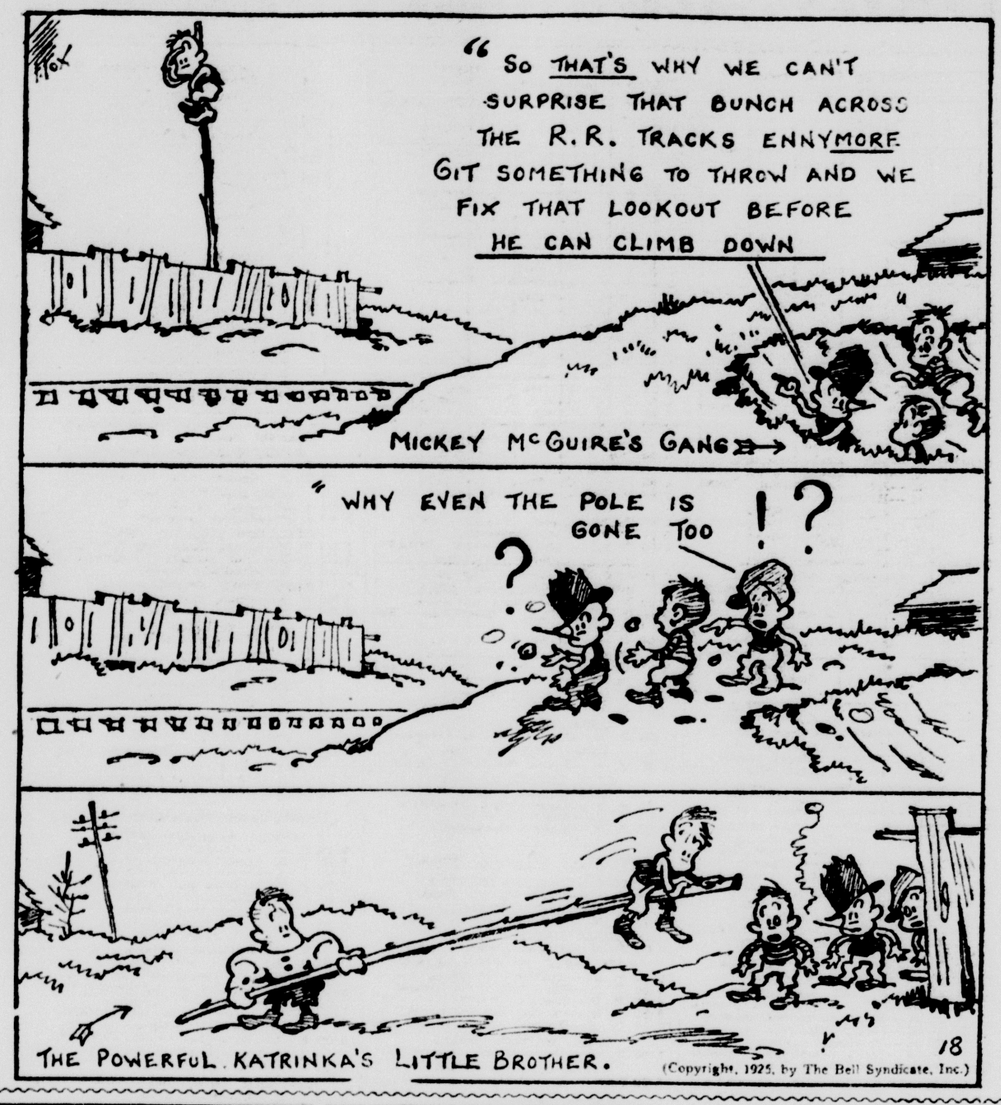

Road Hogs

The federal bureau of public roads, investigating the psychology of "road hogs," finds that the truck driver is not so porcine as he has been pictured. Truck drivers as a class, the official obesrvers report, drive one foot closer to the outside of the pavement than automobilists do, in order to give an approaching car enough clearance. So it really is the motor car drivers who are the road hogs.

Both classes are bad enough, at times, as every driver knows. But when a truck driver hugs the middle of the road and ignores the warning toot of a car behind that wants to pass, he usually has the excuse of seeking safety for his truck and cargo or of not hearing the horn. The automobilist who dawdles along the middle of the paved strip and refuses to get over seldom has any excuse whatever, unless it be that Nature has made him egotistic, selfish, stolid and discourteous. Of all driving pests, there is none more intolerable.

That MacMillan expedition may discover an Arctic continent and find where the storms come from, but we do hope it won't definitely locate Santa Claus' headquarters.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 18.—I find keener amusement in the New York theatres watching the orchestras than most of the play. I am constantly enthralled by the maestro of the bull fiddle. With so many flutes, why does a man select this enslaving instrument as a career?

The bull fiddler must stand while his fellows recline in easy chairs. He goes through life with this dog house strapped to his back. When he walks the paves the people get out of his way and cast him mean and annoyed glances.

When the play is over the pianist slams down the lid and walks away. The flue player slips his flute in his vest pocket and goes out to join the boys at Jake's. But the poor bull fiddler must jockey his dog house into a corner without assistance. He is the last man to leave.

I imagine in the night when he hears the fire wagon sirening through town he is tortured by the thought: "There goes the bull fiddle." He is never permitted to play a solo. Who wants to hear a bull fiddle solo? He is a sort of outcast among musicians.

Bull fiddlers are of the same mold. Little men with gold rimmed spectacles and the hunched up look of the frightened rabbit. They seem in constant fear of the conductor's baton—as though any one cared whether or not they missed a note.

I fancy the bull fiddler is the product of heredity. Uncle Gottlieb leaves a bull fiddle among his effects. Somebody has to use it and it is thrust upon the most timid member of the family. From then on he becomes a slave—a musical Moloch.

The violinist flecks the dust off his instrument with a handkerchief. The bull fiddler must take a day off now and then with polishing rags and a bucket of polish give his daily torture a chiffonier finish.

The bull fiddler getting rid of his fiddle must be somewhat like my own experience in getting rid of a masseur. I had engaged him on a morning following a day of rather violent exercise. The next morning he came and I had to permit his soothing ministrations. He was a bovine eyed, gentle type and somehow I didn't have the heart to dismiss him. Finally in desperation I hung a sign on my door: "Be back in three weeks." And that night I met him in the hall. He was back the next morning with: "Well, I see you didn't go away." He is still a diurnal visitor. But he may yet rub me the wrong way.

They tell of a hard-boiled Park Row city editor of a few years ago who would now and then hum lightly and happily to himself: "I fired six reporters today, la la!" That city editor is now a life prisoner for murder.

The Roaring Forties now has a rival in The Seething Sixties. The theatrical center is slowly sweeping up to Columbus Circle in its long, long march from 14th street. Five theatrical hits are in the neighborhood and more theatres, they say are to grace the neighborhood soon.

A New York movie director upon learning that a former flame who had several times in wrather threatened legal redress for flimsy promises of marriage took a rather mean advantage of the lady's recent marriage to another. He secured a huge and gaudy plush lined jewelry box from a smart avenue establishment and inside he placed a six pound cobble stone. When the lady opened it she found a card from him reading: "This is the weight off my mind."

A blind beggar in the neighborhood of Grand Central warns of disaster in drink. A card around his neck reads: "I was blinded drinking wood alcohol."

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 18.—Disposing of the enormous store of official documents of the United States government is becoming each year a greater and greater problem. It is difficult for the layman, unacquainted with Washington, to visualize the tons and tons of paper on which have been printed or written communications to the United States and the further tons representing copies of government replies to these communications.

Many of the documents are well housed and safely cared for, but some of the most important are not. The most conspicuous cases of perilously filed papers are presented by the Patent office, the Bureau of Census and the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The Patent office houses the official records of the latters patent issued to inventors. While the old building is a splendid one from the architectural point of view, its interior arrangements for the protection of the papers are inadequate. Extra racks have had to be built even in the corridors of the building to make room for the constantly growing tonnage of paper. The visitor to the building is impressed by being almost everywhere surrounded by exposed stacks of paper, flimsy enough to catch fire easily.

In the early thirties a disastrous fire did occur. Patents were relatively few then compared to the million and a half now outstanding. Yet it took the government twelve years to replace the damage. By patient effort, patentees were communicated with and copies obtained from them. Again, in the seventies, a lesser fire caused more damage and again a painstaking and expensive process of recovery had to be gone through with. The task of replacing destroyed patents would now be almost insuperable and would cost a vast sum of money.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who recently took over the Patent office from the Interior department, is anxious to have the government appropriate funds for a new building providing proper and safe steel vaults.

Census Records in Danger.

The Census Bureau, which has the population records for many years back is housed in one of the temporary buildings erected during the war. The structure is of light material and while great precautions are taken to prevent fire, it is recognized that a conflagration might occur at any time. There is a positive rule against smoking in the building. The census records could not be duplicated if they were destroyed as the persons from whom the earlier data were collected are dead.

Many divisions of the Internal Revenue Bureau are located in a similar temporary war building, built largely of frame. Here are thousands upon thousands of income tax returns on which the Treasury revenue collections are based. Perhaps many people would not be sorry to see the returns destroyed, but the loss to the government would be severe. Much evidence in contested tax cases would be lost.

To go over the whole situation at Washington would require a bulky book. The Interstate Commerce Commission has tons of documents—complaints, testimony of witneses before hearings, opinions rendered and general correspondents of importance in rate and valuation cases. These are fairly well housed. The department of Justice has more important documents and now these are in a good, modern building. Before the department moved from a group of old, remodelled buildings it occupied, it was found that some of the most valuable evidence in the famous anti-trust suit against the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad had been eaten by rats.

All through the government establishment much the same situation exists. The departments are overburdened by their load of paper. In the cases of the patents, census records and some others, the documents are of enduring importance and never should be parted with, but in addition to these there is a great store of documents which are of ephemeral importance. Tons of this type of paper might well be disposed of but such destruction is a touchy subject.

There is a Federal law against the destruction of government documents in the official files and penalties are provided for destroying or even removing them temporarily from the files, without full authority being granted. The one outlet provided is not big enough to take care of the ever increasing inflow. There is a committee of congress on the Disposition of Useless Executive Papers. This committee may, after going through considerable legal red tape, authorize certain papers to be destroyed.

Someone Always Interested.

One thing which deters government officials from destroying papers or getting legislation authorizing them to make wholesale destruction, is that they find frequently that some one or some group is vitally concerned in the permanent retention of the document.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover, in discussing the problems the other day, said: "There is a lot of sentiment and emotion connected with the memorials or other various communications sent in to the government. Many regard it as a betrayal of their citizenship to have the documents of which they are the authors destroyed. Documents which are useless to the government and in which no one else is interested will have an abiding interest for someone who will resent the papers' destruction. As officials are the servants of all branches of the public, these wishes must be respected."

The older governments of Europe have a simplified system. What is called a dossier is made of every case in which any government department is interested. As a document comes along in such a case, a digest of it will be made, requiring little space. A paragraph, perhaps a single sentence, often takes the place of a massive tome, yet in a separate file. As they become old they the relegated to more remote storage and finally, when entirely out-worn, are disposed of. Thus

SATURDAY, APRIL 18, 1925.

Municipal Court Bill Enacted

East Liverpool's proposed municipal court has been established by legislative act.

The bill sponsored by Representative R. W. Emmons, of East Rochester, in the house, and supported by Senator M. Carpenter, in the upper branch, was passed over Gov. A. V. Donahey's veto by the general assembly yesterday afternoon and last night.

The measure, which was approved by Trades and Labor council, Chamber of Commerce, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs and the Southern Columbiana County Bar association as well as scores of civic leaders, was re-enacted by a vote of 91 to 12 in the lower chamber of the legislature. In the upper house, the vote was also overwhelming.

Under the provisions of the legislation, the act becomes operative on Jan. 1 next.

Its enactment means the abolition of five justice of the peace courts in Liverpool township, discontinuance of the mayor's police court and the assignment of civil actions, in which the claims are not in excess of $1,500, to a municipal judge. Its supporters are confident that the court will not only be self-sustaining, but will also be a means of revenue for the city. And, too, it is certain to prove a time saver as well as reduce court costs and traveling expenses of principals in litigation.

And with the measure a law, careful attention should now be given to the selection of the first judge in order that the court may function properly and creditably to its citizenship.

Flivver Parts By Air

Commercial aviation starts. Henry Ford opens a pioneer line from Detroit to Chicago not for passengers but for freight. It will carry Ford mail, Ford money and small Ford parts, to the extent of half a ton per trip.

Thus the Ford Motor company, says Edsel Ford, is merely extending its transportation system. It is not making planes for the purpose, but buying them. It wants to use airplanes along with railroads, motor trucks and steamships in carrying on its great business. Ultimately it expects to have air routes branching from its plants in all directions, for long distances.

The experiment will be watched with all the more interest because some of the aviation sharps lately have been saying that the airplane was not good for freight—only for mail and passengers. Henry Ford has a way of refuting experts and making the impractical possible. If he succeeds, other manufacturers and merchants will follow his example.

Anyway, here is another evidence of the new life suddenly breathed into aviation in this country. On all sides landing fields are being laid out, routes projected and equipment made ready. It is going to be an interesting year for flying.

Baedeker Passes

Millions of people must have heard with a sentimental stirring of old memories the news of Fritz Baedeker's death. He might be called the Henry Ford of travel. He spent his life standardizing and simplifying the art of touring, following in the footsteps of his father, Karl Baedeker. He had been 66 years on the job when he died, the other day, at 81, still working on a new guidebook.

Many individualists deplore Baedeker and what he stood for, as they deplore fivvers. Many do not want to go where everybody else goes, and see what everybody else sees, and think the prescribed thoughts and feel the prescribed emotions common to all the tribe of guidebook devotees. They prefer to go their own way, ignoring the double-starred scenes and buildings and art works if they choose, setting their own pace and making their own selections, and treating themselves to surprises occasionally instead of knowing before hand all they are going to see and being introduced automatically to every new experience.

That, perhaps, is the better way to travel for him who has time and money and ideas of his own about traveling. For the multitude, Baedeker and his kind have done much, enabling them to see, rather easily and quickly, a world that might otherwise have been closed to them. Better a standardized, stereotyped trip to another land, herded with a crowd, than fossilizing at home. And people who like flocking together and having their way smoothed find that the ideal system.

a mere fraction of the space for documents which the United States employs is used by officials abroad.

Every householder knows how fast his garret or his cellar will fill up with newspapers, old letters and other documents unless he systematically disposed of them.

When the Mohammedans captured Alexandria, that great African metropolis boasted the greatest library in the world. The Moslem general who took the city started to destroy it but Grammaticus, a great scholar of the day, begged to have the books saved. The general agreed to refer the matter to the Caliph, the head of the Islamic faith. The message the Caliph sent back was that if there was anything contained in the library that was in the Koran, the library was superfluous and if anything that was not in the Koran it was pernicious and unlawful.

So the library was destroyed by using the books, scrolls and papers as fuel to heat the four thousand public baths of the city. An indication of the vastness of the accumulation, even in those far past centuries, may be found in the fact that the fuel heated the baths for six months.

Firmus, a paper maker of Alexandria, on another occasion, made the boast that he could pay the whole Roman army out of his own purse for an indefinite period from the profits he had made in his business.

These are indications of how much paper was used and how it accumulated in the past, so with whole forests being swept away daily to furnish pulp for American paper mills, one can see what a problem it is for the government—probably the largest recipient of communications in the nation—to handle its ever increasing supply.

CARD OF THANKS.

We, the daughters of Mrs. Adaline V. Karcher, wish to thank our friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown us in the sickness and death of our mother.

CLAIM FABLED FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH, LONG SOUGHT BY MAN, IS IN SIGHT

Scientist Says Lower Forms of Life Have Been Indefinitely Prolonged by Process of Starvation.

By FRED J. WALKER.

(Copyright, 1925, by I. N. S.)

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The fabled Fountain of Youth, sought since time immemorial by man in his quest for eternal physical youth, has at last been found.

It was revealed today by Dr. A. C. Baker, entomologist of the department of agriculture, that science, by a process of starvation, has been able to indefinitely prolong lower forms of life.

But with the tragic irony of fate, man must wait for added knowledge before the discovery can be applied to his own body.

The experimentts have been carried on coincidentally by famous scientists throughout the world, notably Prof. C. M. Child, zoologist of the University of California, and J. S. Huxley, grandson of the famed bilogist.

"Huxley believes that man is on the verge of a control of life which will make our present control of inorganic matter seem small in comparison," said Dr. Baker.

"Mature flat worms have been starved into physical infancy and then fed back to maturity. The experiment was continued no less than 18 times by Prof. Child, who then stopped the work, convinced that his point had been proved.

"This means that one form of life has been artificially made to outlive 18 generations of its kind."

Half Pay Checks In America Less Than $25 a Week

CHICAGO, April—One person out of seventy-two in the United ates has an income of more than $4,000 a year, declared R. B. Cook, of Chicago, in an address at a national convention of commercial educators here.

"Fifty-three per cent of the pay envelopes of America contain less than $25 a week," said Mr. Cook. "Of the 42,000,000 people who are doing the actual work of America fewer than 4 per cent are in the class receiving above $4,000 a year. At the same time there are estimated to be 750,000 major executive positions, paying salaries up to $100,000, in the United States, and 10 per cent of these have to be refilled every year."

Barthelmess' New Picture, "Classmates," Comes to American

Richard Barthelmess' new First National production, "Classmates," which comes to the American theatre on Monday has an interesting and unusual history.

This picteresque and colorful story of West Point life was written by William De Mille and Margaret Turnbull long before either thought of motion picture associations. Now Mr. De Mille is a famous director and Miss Turnbull a widely known scenario writer. Then, however, they were strugling playwrights.

"Classmates" is based upon an actual incident at West Point. Charles Klein, one of the most successful dramatists of some twenty years ago, saw a clipping of a hazing incident at the Military Academy and took it to the theatrical manger, Harry B. Harris. Both of them saw a drama in the incident, but neither could develop the right sort of plot. In time it was turned over to Mr. De Mille and Miss Turnbull.

Upon its presentation on Broadway "Classmates" proved to be a huge success. The cast included Robert Edson in the role now played by Barthelmess, Wallace Eddinger and Frank McIntyre. As a stage play "Classmates" ran for some four years in New York and on tour.

HEALTH AGENT GIVES ADVICE

Dr. Charles Koenig Points Out Great Danger of "Contact."

Dr. Charles Koenig, county health agent, in the following article calls attention to the danger of coming into "contact" with persons suffering from various diseases:

"Contact."

Germs that cause disease, as explained in the various article, must have heat, moisture and darkness. Such an ideal combination is furnished by the human mouth. In nearly all the communicable disease the germs are harbored in the mouth, nose and throat. In fact, that is where they become attached and grow and produce the sickness in the individual by throwing off their poisons or by themselves getting into the blood stream and being carried to other parts of the body where they grow and set up inflammation.

In order for one person who is susceptible to "catch" the disease from a person who is sick or is a carrier of the disease he must come in "contact" with the later. By contact is meant the actual touching of the infected person (carrier). Thus, if the susceptible person kiss, shake hands with, uses the same drinking cup or the same towel or wash bowl as the carrier of an infection, that is considered "actual contact." That is quite different from the old idea of "exposure." This is contact as well as exposure to an infection. This explains why some people who were exposed to an infection do not catch the disease while others do. The fact is that those who were not in actual contact did not "pick up" the infectino. Those who were in contact and did not pick up some infection may not have picked up enough to produce disease, or they may have washed the germs off their hands before they got into their noses or mouths where the disease would develop.

A person's fingers are fairly warm and moist and under the nails are grooves large enough to hold many germs. The fingers coming in contact with the nose and mouth are being continually supplied with more germs and leaving some germs in the nose or mouth.

As explained in a previous communication a handkerchief containing discharge of the nose and mouth could keep the hands of its owner constantly supplied with germs.

As can be seen from the above the hands are the most important agent in disseminating germs. Hence, the care of the hands will keep us from disseminating or catching infections. So in caring for a patient with a communicable disease the hands must be watched (also washed) carefully. They must not come in contact with the nose or mouth until washed with soap and water. Discharges from patients should be burned. Food handlers must keep their hands from their noses and mouths, and if they should happen to touch these places they should immediately wash their hands. They should not take care of food when they are sick. The hands of milkers should be thoroughly washed before milking. If caps are put on milk bottles by hand that can destroy the value of the previous pasteurization. Milk not pasteurized or capped by hand should be boiled before feeding to children.

It will be seen then that "contact" with an infected individual may be actual intimate contact, or touching or eating objects which were handled by the infected individual. In the case of the handling of objects it must be within a short time between handling and getting into the mouth of the susceptible person.

BOXING MEASURE UP TO GOVERNOR

Credit for saving the measure setting up a state athletic commission in the house of delegates is given to Representative W. J. Cotton of Ohio county, one of the most ardent supporters of the measure.

In addition to assisting in securing additional advocates for the bill, Mr. Cotton took the floor of the house yesterday afternoon and challenged the delegates to prove that the measure would affect morals of the youth of the state.

"I am a church member and attend Sunday school, as well as box suppers and other church activities," Mr Cotton asserted, "and I do not propose to let unchallenged the misrepresentation that this measure would degenerate morals, increase gambling and have other bad effects."

The measure was also passed by the senate.

PLANS FORMED FOR DEDICATION

New Masonic Temple to be Opened Here on May 3.

Final details have been completed for the dedicatory exercises of the new Masonic temple in Lisbon Sunday afternoon, May 3.

The affair will be under the charge of Grand Master Judge John B. Ruhl, of the Grand Lodge of Ohio, of Cleveland, and his official staff. The entire staff of the Grand Lodge will be in Lisbon with the possible exception of three officers, and these will be filled by Congressman B. Frank Murphy of Steubenville, Judge John H. Clarke of Youngstown and Frank S. Harson of Cleveland, all 33rd degree Masons.

The official staff of Judge Ruhl is composed of the following officers: Earl Stewart, Ironton; Charles L. Minor, Springfield; B. Frank Thomas, Youngstown; Horace W. Irwin, Dayton; Harry S. Johnson, Cincinnati; Otto H. Hohley, Toledo; Rev. William H. Masters, Alliance; Harry E. Englehart, Cincinnati; Herman Thiessen, Lakewood; Henry H. Squire, Sandusky; A. B. Fairchild, Ravenna; O. P. Sperla, Cincinnati.

The address in the Masonic temple following the dedicatory services will be delivered by Dr. McMasters of Mt. Union college, right worshipful grand chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Ohio.

New Lisbon lodge No. 65, F. & A. M., is one of the oldest Masonic lodges in Ohio, having been instituted January 21, 1822, under a dispensation granted for that purpose by the Grand Lodge of Ohio.

On January 16, 1923, George McCook, Elderkin Potter, Andrew Jerome and others received a charter, which the lodge still retains.

A search of the old records of this lodge reveals as active Masons during those early and trying times in this county, the names of many men whose memory is held sacred and dear to the hearts of all Lisbon people.

The first meeting place was in a two-story brick building near the present Bradbury block on West Lincoln way. In 1859 the third floor of the Benner building, at the corner of East Park way and East Lincoln way was secured by New Lisbon lodge, and for many years stated meetings were held there. These rooms were retained under lease for 31 years, when a lease was taken on the Galley-Firestone block on East Lincoln way, the owners remodeling the building to suit the convenience of the lodge.

For 36 years the lodge continued to meet in this building, when last year it was determined to remodel the property. The work is now nearing completion, only a few details remaining to be attended to before the first meeting will be held in the new rooms next Tuesday evening.

The building was inspected Friday evening by W. S. Aldon, of Salem, district lecturer for the Grand Lodge of Ohio.

New Lisbon lodge has several members whose ages are over 70 years, some being in the 80s, among these being Martin Eaholtz, aged 88 years; Hiram Dowart, T. W. Vogan, D. H. Jackson and D. C. Porter, these being among the oldest members of the lodge. Each became a member very soon after they obtained their majority.

A special detail of traffic officers will be placed on duty in Lisbon May 3, as it is held should favorable weather prevail one of the largest crowds ever seen in Lisbon will attend the dedication of the new temple. Marshal Roy L. Lewton has enlisted the services of Sheriff George Wright and his official staff to assist in handling traffic. Special routes will be marked for motorists, so that the central part of Lisbon will be free from congestion.

A week of activity has been planned by the various Masonic bodies of Lisbon for the week following the dedication. On the evening of May 1 New Lisbon lodge will give a stag party and on the Monday following Masons and their families will be entertained. This will be known as Family night.

The annual inspection of the lodge will follow on Tuesday night and on Wednesday night Ivy chapter, Eastern Stars, will hold their first meeting in the new lodge rooms. Thursday night the Royal Arch will hold their meeting and on Friday night there will be a dinner-dance, and to this event a general invitation is to be extended to Masons and their families throughout the county.

Following this week of activity the various Masonic bodies in Lisbon will hold their meetings, according to stated schedule in their new lodge rooms.

CHURCH TRUSTEES SPLIT ON SALE

Because Frank Bricker, a member of the board of trustees of St. Jacob's Reformed church, it is said, refused to be a party to the sale of a part of a farm the congregation owns on the Lisbon-Salem road after the congregation had instructed the trustees to sell the property, the matter has now reached the courts.

A petition has been filed in common pleas court by Attorney George T. Farrell in behalf of Frank Speaker and Paul W. Sitler, the other two members of the board of trustees, asking the court to designate under what terms the property might be sold.

DRINK MORE DUR-BUR IT'S GOOD FOR YOU

Crowell Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. W. F. Crowell, who died at her home in Lisbon Wednesday night after a few days' illness, was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Mt. Zion Lutheran church. Mrs. Crowell was born on a farm near this church. She was a member of Lisbon grange and also of the State grange.

Mrs. Alma Hetrick, in her divorce petition filed against her husband, Labana Hetrick, relates that she has been compelled to support herself and child. The petition, which was filed by Attorney Frank E. Grosshans, declares that for seven or eight years Hetrick has failed to provide a home for his family.

Divorce Granted.

Because she proved that her husband has a wife by a former marriage from whom he was not divorced at the time he married her, Ella L. Gross had no trouble in obtaining a decree of divorce from Judge James G. Moore from her husband, George W. Gross. The plaintiff was restored to her maiden name, Ella L. Chappell.

Two Decrees Issued.

Three years of wilful absence was the cause assigned for the divorce having been granted W. H. Sanders against his wife Mozelle Sanders. It was agreed with the court that the plaintiff pay the counsel fees of the defendant and he is also oredred to pay his wife $25 per month for eight months, begining May 1.

George S. Rumberger remained away from his wife, Grace Rumberger, for three years, and she was granted a divorce on the grounds of wilful absence.

Columbiana

Record-breaking crowds attended the Easter Sunday services at all of the Columbiana churches. At the Grace Reformed church 501 communed in the morning, and chairs were placed in the aisles to private seats for the audience. Seventeen new members had been received at the Friday evening service. The day opened with a 6 o'clock morning service in charge of the Christian Endeavor society, with C. W. Kellogg as leader. The topic was "What Does the Resurrection of Jesus Mean to Me?" In the evening a large audience witnessed the program of music, readings, etc. in charge of the Sunday school.

The Methodist program for the day was very similar, opening with an early watch service. Three hundred and twenty attended Sunday school and 24 new members were taken into the church at the morning communion service, the sermon subject being "Christ the Resurrection and the Life." In the evening the Sunday school had charge of the program.

Ten new members were taken into the Presbyterian church Sunday morning. An unusually large attendance was present at the communion service. In the evening the choir gave the Easter cantata, "The Resurrection and the Life." This church also held an early morning prayer service.

At the Lutheran church 15 new members joined the church at the morning service and the regular communion was held, while the evening service was devoted to an entertainment entitled "The First Easter."

PLANS FORMED FOR DEDICATION

New Masonic Temple to be Opened Here on May 3.

Final details have been completed for the dedicatory exercises of the new Masonic temple in Lisbon Sunday afternoon, May 3.

The affair will be under the charge of Grand Master Judge John B. Ruhl, of the Grand Lodge of Ohio, of Cleveland, and his official staff. The entire staff of the Grand Lodge will be in Lisbon with the possible exception of three officers, and these will be filled by Congressman B. Frank Murphy of Steubenville, Judge John H. Clarke of Youngstown and Frank S. Harson of Cleveland, all 33rd degree Masons.

The official staff of Judge Ruhl is composed of the following officers: Earl Stewart, Ironton; Charles L. Minor, Springfield; B. Frank Thomas, Youngstown; Horace W. Irwin, Dayton; Harry S. Johnson, Cincinnati; Otto H. Hohley, Toledo; Rev. William H. Masters, Alliance; Harry E. Englehart, Cincinnati; Herman Thiessen, Lakewood; Henry H. Squire, Sandusky; A. B. Fairchild, Ravenna; O. P. Sperla, Cincinnati.

The address in the Masonic temple following the dedicatory services will be delivered by Dr. McMasters of Mt. Union college, right worshipful grand chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Ohio.

New Lisbon lodge No. 65, F. & A. M., is one of the oldest Masonic lodges in Ohio, having been instituted January 21, 1822, under a dispensation granted for that purpose by the Grand Lodge of Ohio.

On January 16, 1923, George McCook, Elderkin Potter, Andrew Jerome and others received a charter, which the lodge still retains.

A search of the old records of this lodge reveals as active Masons during those early and trying times in this county, the names of many men whose memory is held sacred and dear to the hearts of all Lisbon people.

The first meeting place was in a two-story brick building near the present Bradbury block on West Lincoln way. In 1859 the third floor of the Benner building, at the corner of East Park way and East Lincoln way was secured by New Lisbon lodge, and for many years stated meetings were held there. These rooms were retained under lease for 31 years, when a lease was taken on the Gailey-Firestone block on East Lincoln way, the owners remodeling the building to suit the convenience of the lodge.

For 36 years the lodge continued to meet in this building, when last year it was determined to remodel the property. The work is now nearing completion, only a few details remaining to be attended to before the first meeting will be held in the new rooms next Tuesday evening.

The building was inspected Friday evening by W. S. Aldon, of Salem, district lecturer for the Grand Lodge of Ohio.

New Lisbon lodge has several members whose ages are over 70 years, some being in the 80s, among these being Martin Eaholtz, aged 88 years; Hiram Dowart, T. W. Vogan, D. H. Jackson and D. C. Porter, these being among the oldest members of the lodge. Each became a member very soon after they obtained their majority.

A special detail of traffic officers will be placed on duty in Lisbon May 3, as it is held should favorable weather prevail one of the largest crowds ever seen in Lisbon will attend the dedication of the new temple. Marshal Roy L. Lewton has enlisted the services of Sheriff George Wright and his official staff to assist in handling traffic. Special routes will be marked for motorists, so that the central part of Lisbon will be free from congestion.

A week of activity has been planned by the various Masonic bodies of Lisbon for the week following the dedication. On the evening of May 1 New Lisbon lodge will give a stag party and on the Monday following Masons and their families will be entertained. This will be known as Family night.

The annual inspection of the lodge will follow on Tuesday night and on Wednesday night Ivy chapter, Eastern Stars, will hold their first meeting in the new lodge rooms. Thursday night the Royal Arch will hold their meeting and on Friday night there will be a dinner-dance, and to this event a general invitation is to be extended to Masons and their families throughout the county.

Following this week of activity the various Masonic bodies in Lisbon will hold their meetings, according to stated schedule in their new lodge rooms.

CHURCH TRUSTEES SPLIT ON SALE

Because Frank Bricker, a member of the board of trustees of St. Jacob's Reformed church, it is said, refused to be a party to the sale of a part of a farm the congregation owns on the Lisbon-Salem road after the congregation had instructed the trustees to sell the property, the matter has now reached the courts.

A petition has been filed in common pleas court by Attorney George T. Farrell in behalf of Frank Speaker and Paul W. Sitler, the other two members of the board of trustees, asking the court to designate under what terms the property might be sold.

Seventeen new members had been received at the Friday evening service. The day opened with a 6 o'clock morning service in charge of the Christian Endeavor society, with C. W. Kellogg as leader. The topic was "What Does the Resurrection of Jesus Mean to Me?" In the evening a large audience witnessed the program of music, readings, etc. in charge of the Sunday school.

Hudson-Essex Builds 250,000 Coaches In Three Years

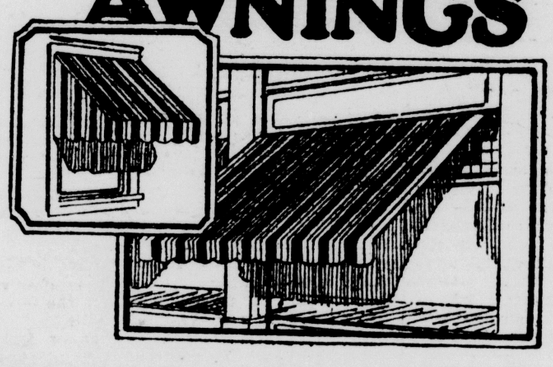

These cars illustrate three phases of automobile progress. Upperleft shows first Hudson car ever built — without top, without windshield, without many things motorists have today. The upper right is the famous first Essex coach — the grand-daddy of the closed-cars-at-open-car-prices idea. Below is a special photograph of the 250,000th coach built just a few days ago.

A quarter of a million coaches in three years!

This is the record reported by the Hudson Motor Car Co., which originated the coach type of car late in 1921. Up to that time enclosed cars had cost the motorist about $1,000 more than an open one. Now open and enclosed ones sell at about the same figure. Hudson-Essex has maintained its leadership by offering the coaches at actually less than the touring cars.

Nine out of every ten Hudson-Essex cars made is a coach. This is said to be the greatest example of specialization in the motor car industry. Just recently the 250,000th coach was made.

'RAIN,' NEW YORK HIT, IS COMING

Broadway's Biggest Success at Ceramic Thursday.

"Rain" the play which has been the biggest success on Broadway for a decade and which brought forth a torrent of comment from New York reviewers when it was produced at the Maxine Elliott theatre over two years ago, is to be presented at the Ceramic theatre next Thursday evening, by Sam H. Harris, who sponsored it during its metropolitan engagement.

It is what might be called a drama of human souls and it will be remembered it first appeared as a short story in one of the popular magazines written by W. Somerset Maugham and is also contained in a volume of his short stories, being called "Miss Thompson."

Although Maugham is a playwright himself, and a successful one, it seems that it did not occur to him that it contained material for stage purposes. Two aspiring young playwrights, John Colton and Clemence Randolph, however, did see these possibilities and secured permission from the author of "Miss Thompson" to dramatise it with the surprising result that it at once became a furore, under the title of "Rain."

The scenes are laid at Pago Pago, on the Island of Tutuila, one of the many islands in the South Seas, about the only one that is under the domination of the United States. The characters are both native and whites—the two principal ones as far as the story are concerned being Sadie Thompson, a scarlet woman who has come there to escape from a prison sentence in America and the Rev. Alfred Davidson, a missionary, who is about to take up his life's work on the island. The preacher is a zealous and uncompromising disciple of his religion, who most characteristically intends to regulate everything. Under the American regime it developes that missionaries have great power with an American governor, and when Davidson goes to that official to demand that Sadie be sent back to the states to serve out her sentence, the governor quickly, although reluctantly consents. It is then, that a complication arises which causes the preacher to commit suicide. The girl, who apparently became imbued with the religious ideas of her prosecutor goes back to her old life, and turns on her phonograph which had been stilled for several days, as the curtain falls.

Hudson-Essex Builds 250,000 Coaches In Three Years

These cars illustrate three phases of automobile progress. Upperleft shows first Hudson car ever built — without top, without windshield, without many things motorists have today. The upper right is the famous first Essex coach — the grand-daddy of the closed-cars-at-open-car-prices idea. Below is a special photograph of the 250,000th coach built just a few days ago.

A quarter of a million coaches in three years!

This is the record reported by the Hudson Motor Car Co., which originated the coach type of car late in 1921. Up to that time enclosed cars had cost the motorist about $1,000 more than an open one. Now open and enclosed ones sell at about the same figure. Hudson-Essex has maintained its leadership by offering the coaches at actually less than the touring cars.

Nine out of every ten Hudson-Essex cars made is a coach. This is said to be the greatest example of specialization in the motor car industry. Just recently the 250,000th coach was made.

'RAIN,' NEW YORK HIT, IS COMING

Broadway's Biggest Success at Ceramic Thursday.

"Rain" the play which has been the biggest success on Broadway for a decade and which brought forth a torrent of comment from New York reviewers when it was produced at the Maxine Elliott theatre over two years ago, is to be presented at the Ceramic theatre next Thursday evening, by Sam H. Harris, who sponsored it during its metropolitan engagement.

It is what might be called a drama of human souls and it will be remembered it first appeared as a short story in one of the popular magazines written by W. Somerset Maugham and is also contained in a volume of his short stories, being called "Miss Thompson."

Although Maugham is a playwright himself, and a successful one, it seems that it did not occur to him that it contained material for stage purposes. Two aspiring young playwrights, John Colton and Clemence Randolph, however, did see these possibilities and secured permission from the author of "Miss Thompson" to dramatise it with the surprising result that it at once became a furore, under the title of "Rain."

The scenes are laid at Pago Pago, on the Island of Tutuila, one of the many islands in the South Seas, about the only one that is under the domination of the United States. The characters are both native and whites—the two principal ones as far as the story are concerned being Sadie Thompson, a scarlet woman who has come there to escape from a prison sentence in America and the Rev. Alfred Davidson, a missionary, who is about to take up his life's work on the island. The preacher is a zealous and uncompromising disciple of his religion, who most characteristically interprets to regulate everything. Under the American regime it developes that missionaries have great power with an American governor, and when Davidson goes to that official to demand that Sadie be sent back to the states to serve out her sentence, the governor quickly, although reluctantly consents. It is then, that a complication arises which causes the preacher to commit suicide. The girl, who apparently became imbued with the religious ideas of her prosecutor goes back to her old life, and turns on her phonograph which had been stilled for several days, as the curtain falls.

Italian Village In Alps Claims Low Death Rate

MILAN, April.—The city of Piode, in the Italian Alps, claims the world's lowest mortality record. No deaths have occurred for more than a year, and it is said that during the past ten years, only five inhabitants have died, and one of these by his own hand.

Piode's claim was made after the village of Salecchio, also in the mountainous sections of Italy, declared itself the healthiest spot on earth, due to the fact that no deaths had occurred there in an extraordinary length of time.

Wife Beaters Face Whipping Post Under Old Maryland Law

BALTIMORE—Wife beaters who appear before Judge Henry Duffy, in criminal court here, in future will receive more than a tongue-lashing for sentence—they will receive a whiplashing. The judge made known his intention after hearing the case of Mrs. Edda Simmons against her husband, Robert.

Mrs. Simmons testified her husband beat and kicked her because she didn't give him enough money out of her pay envelope. Judge Duffy gave Simmons six months in the house of correction.

"The next wife beater who comes before me," said the judge, "will be surprised to learn I have revived the use of the whipping post in Maryland."

The judge will find it easy to make good his threat, as the official whipping post, long regarded as a relic of other days, still finds in the yard at city jail, ready for the next victim to receive the proverbial "thirty lashes."

HOME TRAINING

Edsol Ford's Devotion to Duty.

"We who know the circumstances believe that you are needed here," said Rev. Marquis to Edsol Ford during the World war, "but the public is ignorant of the circumstances requiring your presence here and you are subject to unjust criticism. I believe if all the facts were put before the authorities at Washington you would be given an appointment in connection with military service in this district that would permit your keeping in close touch with the affairs here."

Edsol made quick reply, "I refuse absolutely to let any one take such action in my behalf. I honestly believe that I can render my best and most valuable service here. But if not here in connection with this business—then in France.

"I want no stay-at-home appointment. I will accept none. I do not want to don a uniform with the assurance that I will be expected to do nothing but sit in a swivel chair.

"There is one job in this war I do not want and I will not take, and that is the job of the rich man's son. If the authorities in whose hands my case is resting, feel that I am mistaken in my belief that I can render my best service here, then I would prefer the trenches to a swivel chair."

SERMONOGRAMS

Self-seeking is always a disappointing adventure.

Self is the biggest enemy most men have to deal with.

Sunday is not a day for holiday pleasures but for holy privileges.

The cloud "no bigger than a man's hand" satisfied Elijah that his prayer was answered. With too many of us the answer must loom large before it is recognized as such.

The home to which we look forward an equal chance for all on every side, is a city that "lieth foursquare" with an equal chance for all on every side. The lives of all who would enter into it must be fashioned in the same manner.

We complain that life is hard, yet the truly hard days — days of grief and pain and misfortune—are not in the majority. The peaceful, uneventful, quiet days and hours make up the most of existence, though we forget to count them or to be thankful for them.

"The least-said-soonest-mended" maxim is not always true. There is a possibility of saying entirely too little of love and praise to some dear worker at our side, and then find it impossible through long years of regret to amend the results of our selfish silence.

And you will remember that love is not getting, but giving; not a wild dream of pleasure and a madness of desire; oh no, love is not that; it is goodness and honor and peace and pure living—yes, love is that; and it is the best thing in the world, and the thing that lives longest.—Van Dyke.

The world is too sweet and fair to darken it with clouds of anger. This life is too short and precious to waste it in bearing that heaviest of all burdens, a grudge. Forgive and forget if you can; but forgive anyway; and pray heartily and kindly for all men, for thus only shall we be the children of our Father who maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust.—Van Dyke.

Character is not measured by words and deeds alone. It would be comparative easy to gain a strong and clear character if that were only a question of the control we could exercise over what we say and do. Every man ought to know that his attainments in character are measured by what he is when he is alone with his thoughts. To what does his mind turn when not bent upon daily work? Does he cherish thoughts that would ruin him if expressed? Does he have a subtle enjoyment, a secret pleasure, in seeing or hearing what he would not wish to disclose to his most respected friends? Character is as deep as the man himself, alone and unchallenged by the opinions of others—Charles G. Trumbull.

MRS. WM. BUTTS WAS VERY SICK

Gives Full Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for Remarkable Recovery

Wellston, O.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to make me strong. I was troubled with my back and sides hurting me till I could not do my work, and whenever I caught cold it made me irregular. Since I have taken the Vegetable Compound my side and back don't bother me and I can do my housework and care for my children now, where before I did not feel like doing anything or going around. After my first child was born about four years ago I saw an advertisement in the paper about the Vegetable Compound. I knew it would help me, but I was afraid to try it because people said it would help you to have children and I knew I was having children fast enough. But I thought if it would help me it would be better to have a whole house full of children and have good health. I became stronger from taking it and my husband says I look like a live woman instead of a dead one. When Spring comes I am going to take your Blood Medicine as I am very thin. I will answer letters from any woman who wishes to ask about your medicine."—Mrs. WILLIAM BUTTS, Wellston, Ohio.

Tom Skeyhill
Student of World Affairs.
At the Beiderwolf Tabernacle

Roosevelt said of him: "I would rather be on the platform with Tom Skeyhill than any man I know."

The Literary Digest said: "He's the sort of a man worth reading about."

The New York Globe said: "Skeyhill is the most inspiring speaker that has ever appeared at the Metropolitan Opera House."

So much for the Tom Skeyhill of war days—a young Australian soldier who went through war's Hell at the Dardanelles and came out stone-blind. For two years he lived in unfathomable darkness a thousand times worse than the darkness of night—and suddenly he recovered his sight through the skill of a Washington specialist. But, mark you, during these two years Skeyhill refused to quit—and "carried on" in war service work on the platform, and became a famous speaker.

With the restlessness of the soldier, he returned to Europe in the winter of 1920 to visit Russia and study its chaos. He was refused a passport at New York City by the then Soviet Ambassador Martens, but after "running the lines" to get in, he visited the principal cities of Russia on a forged passport.

He studied Bolshevism first hand. He talked with leaders of the present regime—and the old school as well. With his characteristic soldier spirit, he got just what he went after and brought home the subject matter for his lecture, "Soviet Russia Today."

In the fall of 1922 Mr. Skeyhill again visited Europe, gathering the latest facts on conditions which he has compiled and gives with his own impressions in his newest lecture, "The New Renaissance of European Civilization." The young lecturer has a first hand knowledge of European and Asiatic problems which are so vitally affecting us today. This major theme is a great spiritual message for the youth of the world, calling upon them to rise up and throw down the old war mongers and the reactionaries who are imperiling this civilization.

Was Jesus God?

millions now living will never die . . . . .

Ecclesiastical leaders of Christendom are hopelessly divided.

They preach God the stern, unrelenting one, Jesus as merciful and kind, but still contend that both are one in person. Jesus said that He came to do His Father's will—to reconcile the world to God through Himself.

His death as a man to provide the ransom price for Adam and his offspring is comprehensible, but the doctrine of Jesus as incarnate God is confusing and unscriptural. On the work of "the man Christ Jesus" rests Jehovah's plan for liberty, happiness and everlasting life for the human family.

HOME TRAINING

Edsol Ford's Devotion to Duty.

"We who know the circumstances believe that you are needed here," said Rev. Marquis to Edsol Ford during the World war, "but the public is ignorant of the circumstances requiring your presence here and you are subject to unjust criticism. I believe if all the facts were put before the authorities at Washington you would be given an appointment in connection with military service in this district that would permit your keeping in close touch with the affairs here."

Edsol made quick reply, "I refuse absolutely to let any one take such action in my behalf. I honestly believe that I can render my best and most valuable service here. But if not here in connection with this business—then in France.

"I want no stay-at-home appointment. I will accept none. I do not want to don a uniform with the assurance that I will be expected to do nothing but sit in a swivel chair.

"There is one job in this war I do not want and I will not take, and that is the job of the rich man's son. If the authorities in whose hands my case is resting, feel that I am mistaken in my belief that I can render my best service here, then I would prefer the trenches to a swivel chair."

SERMONOGRAMS

Self-seeking is always a disappointing adventure.

Self is the biggest enemy most men have to deal with.

Sunday is not a day for holiday pleasures but for holy privileges.

The cloud "no bigger than a man's hand" satisfied Elijah that his prayer was answered. With too many of us the answer must loom large before it is recognized as such.

The home to which we look forward an equal chance for all on every side, is a city that "lieth foursquare" with an equal chance for all on every side. The lives of all who would enter into it must be fashioned in the same manner.

We complain that life is hard, yet the truly hard days — days of grief and pain and misfortune—are not in the majority. The peaceful, uneventful, quiet days and hours make up the most of existence, though we forget to count them or to be thankful for them.

"The least-said-soonest-mended" maxim is not always true. There is a possibility of saying entirely too little of love and praise to some dear worker at our side, and then find it impossible through long years of regret to amend the results of our selfish silence.

And you will remember that love is not getting, but giving; not a wild dream of pleasure and a madness of desire; oh no, love is not that; it is goodness and honor and peace and pure living—yes, love is that; and it is the best thing in the world, and the thing that lives longest.—Van Dyke.

The world is too sweet and fair to darken it with clouds of anger. This life is too short and precious to waste it in bearing that heaviest of all burdens, a grudge. Forgive and forget if you can; but forgive anyway; and pray heartily and kindly for all men, for thus only shall we be the children of our Father who maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust.—Van Dyke.

Character is not measured by words and deeds alone. It would be comparative easy to gain a strong and clear character if that were only a question of the control we could exercise over what we say and do. Every man ought to know that his attainments in character are measured by what he is when he is alone with his thoughts. To what does his mind turn when not bent upon daily work? Does he cherish thoughts that would ruin him if expressed? Does he have a subtle enjoyment, a secret pleasure, in seeing or hearing what he would not wish to disclose to his most respected friends? Character is as deep as the man himself, alone and unchallenged by the opinions of others—Charles G. Trumbull.

MRS. WM. BUTTS WAS VERY SICK

Gives Full Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for Remarkable Recovery

Wellston, O.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to make me strong. I was troubled with my back and sides hurting me till I could not do my work, and whenever I caught cold it made me irregular. Since I have taken the Vegetable Compound my side and back don't bother me and I can do my housework and care for my children now, where before I did not feel like doing anything or going around. After my first child was born about four years ago I saw an advertisement in the paper about the Vegetable Compound. I knew it would help me, but I was afraid to try it because people said it would help you to have children and I knew I was having children fast enough. But I thought if it would help me it would be better to have a whole house full of children and have good health. I became stronger from taking it and my husband says I look like a live woman instead of a dead one. When Spring comes I am going to take your Blood Medicine as I am very thin. I will answer letters from any woman who wishes to ask about your medicine."—Mrs. WILLIAM BUTTS, Wellston, Ohio.

Roosevelt said of him: "I would rather be on the platform with Tom Skeyhill than any man I know."

The Literary Digest said: "He's the sort of a man worth reading about."

The New York Globe said: "Skeyhill is the most inspiring speaker that has ever appeared at the Metropolitan Opera House."

So much for the Tom Skeyhill of war days—a young Australian soldier who went through war's Hell at the Dardanelles and came out stone-blind. For two years he lived in unfathomable darkness a thousand times worse than the darkness of night—and suddenly he recovered his sight through the skill of a Washington specialist. But, mark you, during these two years Skeyhill refused to quit—and "carried on" in war service work on the platform, and became a famous speaker.

With the restlessness of the soldier, he returned to Europe in the winter of 1920 to visit Russia and study its chaos. He was refused a passport at New York City by the then Soviet Ambassador Martens, but after "running the lines" to get in, he visited the principal cities of Russia on a forged passport.

He studied Bolshevism first hand. He talked with leaders of the present regime—and the old school as well. With his characteristic soldier spirit, he got just what he went after and brought home the subject matter for his lecture, "Soviet Russia Today."

In the fall of 1922 Mr. Skeyhill again visited Europe, gathering the latest facts on conditions which he has compiled and gives with his own impressions in his newest lecture, "The New Renaissance of European Civilization." The young lecturer has a first hand knowledge of European and Asiatic problems which are so vitally affecting us today. This major theme is a great spiritual message for the youth of the world, calling upon them to rise up and throw down the old war mongers and the reactionaries who are imperiling this civilization.

Was Jesus God?

millions now living will never die . . . . .

Ecclesiastical leaders of Christendom are hopelessly divided.

They preach God the stern, unrelenting one, Jesus as merciful and kind, but still contend that both are one in person. Jesus said that He came to do His Father's will—to reconcile the world to God through Himself.

His death as a man to provide the ransom price for Adam and his offspring is comprehensible, but the doctrine of Jesus as incarnate God is confusing and unscriptural. On the work of "the man Christ Jesus" rests Jehovah's plan for liberty, happiness and everlasting life for the human family.

Heart Trouble Proves Fatal to Brooklyn Club President

EBBETS FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL ROOM BY NURSE

Brilliant Baseball Career of 43 Years Brought to an End.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Charles H. Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn National baseball club, died today of heart disease in his suite at the Waldorf Astoria hotel.

Ebbets fell into a deep slumber about 11 o'clock last night. No one was with him at the time of his death. A nurse who entered the sick room shortly after 6 o'clock this morning, found Ebbets dead and immediately summoned members of his family.

Mr. Ebbets had been a sufferer from heart trouble, complicated by asthma, for some time.

His condition was not believed serious a few weeks ago.

Ebbets' health had not been of the best for the past year. His condition made it imperative that he go South during the winter. He spent the winter in Clearwater, Fla., training camp of his ball club, where he maintained a winter home.

He was so ill at Clearwater that he was forced to give up playing golf, his favorite pastime, outside of his love for baseball.

He had not been active in a business way in the last year. He made only one appearance at a baseball meeting during the winter, in December, when he attended the annual meeting of the National Association of Profesional Baseball Clubs at Hartford, Conn.

Ebbets had been an active figure in baseball for 43 years. He began his baseball career as secretary and then for 27 years was president of the Brooklyn club.

His career, highly colorful and spectacular, covered the whole scope of baseball development from the stage of an afternoon pastime to one of the country's great institutions. He became associated with the Brooklyn club in 1883, having accepted the position of secretary to Charles Byrne. Ebbets was, at the time of his death, the senior member of the National league.

Always aggressive, Ebbets was ever a prominent figure. His fiery characteristics and progressive ideas did not always find favor with his colleagues, and he became entangled in numerous controversies.

His honesty and sincerity of purpose, however, always got him a respectful hearing. Many of the laws and rules of the game were due directly and indirectly to his persistency.

Financial independence did not come to the "Squire" until late in life—after the erection of Ebbets field in 1913, and his friends pointed to it as the crowning achievement of Ebbets' career. He had built his stadium at a time when baseball interest in Brooklyn was at a low ebb.

In 1898 Ebbets succeeded Byrne as president of the Brooklyn club, Byrne having died. It was at a trying period when finances were low and the teams representing Brooklyn were uniformly unsuccessful. It was necessary to economize that Ebbets personally managed the field work of the team for a part of 1898.

The turning point for the better came with the appointment of Wilbert Robinson as manager in 1914. New capital was brought into the enterprise through the affiliation of the McKeever brothers, Stephen W. and Edward J. In 1916 Robinson produced a pennant winner. This freed the club from financial worry and since then, together with Sunday baseball and another pennant, Ebbets and his partners accumulated a fortune.

Six Clubs Qualify For League Berths

Newell, Chester, Wellsville, and Three City Teams Win Places in City Industrial Circuit.

FILING the necessary financial forfeits, six district baseball clubs qualified last night for memberships in the City Industrial league at a meeting of baseball fans in the chamber of commerce rooms.

Several other local clubs, it was announced, are considering places in the circuit. Whether additions to the present membership will be approved will be decided at a session which will be held next week.

The teams taking the preliminary steps for berths in the loop included Trotter-Chevrolet, Laughlin Newell, Babcock and Wilcox, Knowles, Taylor and Knowles, Chester and Wellsville.

The allotment of players and other preliminaries will be made by the club managers following several caucuses to be held before the next meeting of the league.

The team managers include John Fowler, of Trotter-Chevrolet; Barney Bricelin, of the Newell Laughlins; J. Quinn, Babcock-Wilcox; Harry Simcox, of Knowles, Taylor and Knowles; Frank Riley, of Chester, and Dewey Morgan, Wellsville.

Tagging The Bases

The lioness only has one cub, but it is a lion. Joe Judge only got two hits, but one of them was a homer off Shawkey with the bases filled and the Senators made it three out of four by beating the Yankees, 6 to 1.

Continuing their shelling of enemy sharp shooters, the Cubs again beat the Pirates, 9 to 6, home runs by Statz and Hartnett, the latter's fourth in three days, being the deciding feature.

"After you, my dear Gaston," said Joe Shaute of Cleveland, but forgot his manners and stepped in front of the St. Louis pitcher to a 1 to 0 decision in the best pitched game of the season to date.

Blankenship and Lyons had nothing but an empty sleeve and the Tigers socked their way to a 9 to 3 verdict over the White Sox.

Wayland Dean enjoyed one of those personal triumphs at Boston. He not only shut the Braves right out, 2 to 0, but drove in the first run with a single.

The rampant Reds finally were brought up short by the Cardinals, 8 to 6, when two hits and an error staked the Rickey outfit to a pair of runs in the eleventh.

Groves, making his second start of the season, again was wilder than a week's growth and the Red Sox finally beat the Athletics, 4 to 3, in a game curtailed by rain.

Cardinals Cop Final Contest With Redlegs

CINCINNATI, April 18.—St. Louis broke Cincinnati's winning streak of three straight games by taking the final game of the series yesterday in 11 innings, 8 to 6.

The Reds, coming from behind, made the score 6-6 in the seventh. Two hits and a muffed throw gave the Cardinals two runs and the game in the eleventh.

Acmes To Practice.

The Acme baseball club will practice Monday evening at 5 o'clock, officials announced today. The following players are asked to report: Mart Dyer, Leslie Gorney, Otis Amos, Charles Mackey, Charles Dyer, Obbet Scott, Joseph Kinney, Elmer Carey, Ray Sayres, James Manypenny, Harold Amos and Duard Kibble. team managers looking for games are asked to phone Charles Dyer, manager, 1801-M.

Scholastics Crush Newell Squad, 14-2

English Allows West Virginia Tossers Five Scattered Blows and Strikes Out Eight.

Clubbing the offerings of Campbell and Drumm all over the lot, the East Liverpool Scholastics hung up their second victory yesterday afternoon when they crushed the Newell high school nine by a 14 to 2 tally.

Paul English, twirling for the Scholastics, let the Newell tossers down with five scattered hits. He fanned eight of the enemy.

Campbell started the game for the Hancock countians but was driven to the showers in the third, Drumm taking his place in the box.

Captain "Chuck" McConville and Schneidmiller were the batting heroes of the clash, McConville pasting out two doubles and an infield smack in five times up. Schneidmiller straightened the Newell heaver's curves for two doubles and a single.

The Scholastics scored two in the first frame when Dawson walked and went home on McConville's double past third. Schneidmiller's single scored McConville. One hit and five Newell errors were responsible for another run for the Scholastics in the second, and in the third, the locals counted five more on two doubles and four singles. Campbell was derricked and Drumm faced the opposition bats. The locals added another run in the fourth, one in the sixth and three more in the seventh when Dawson hit for two sacks, McConville beat out an infield hit and both advanced on a passed ball. P. English walked, filling the sacks, and Schneidmiller cleaned the paths with a slashing two-bagger to center.

Newell scored a run in the third, Laneve reaching first on Schneidmiller's error. He stole second and went home on Pugh's two sacker. The Newell lads tallied their second and final run in the fourth.

Heart Trouble Proves Fatal to Brooklyn Club President

EBBETS FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL ROOM BY NURSE

Brilliant Baseball Career of 43 Years Brought to an End.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Charles H. Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn National baseball club, died today of heart disease in his suite at the Waldorf Astoria hotel.

Ebbets fell into a deep slumber about 11 o'clock last night. No one was with him at the time of his death. A nurse who entered the sick room shortly after 6 o'clock this morning, found Ebbets dead and immediately summoned members of his family.

Mr. Ebbets had been a sufferer from heart trouble, complicated by asthma, for some time.

His condition was not believed serious a few weeks ago.

Ebbets' health had not been of the best for the past year. His condition made it imperative that he go South during the winter. He spent the winter in Clearwater, Fla., training camp of his ball club, where he maintained a winter home.

He was so ill at Clearwater that he was forced to give up playing golf, his favorite pastime, outside of his love for baseball.

He had not been active in a business way in the last year. He made only one appearance at a baseball meeting during the winter, in December, when he attended the annual meeting of the National Association of Profesional Baseball Clubs at Hartford, Conn.

Ebbets had been an active figure in baseball for 43 years. He began his baseball career as secretary and then for 27 years was president of the Brooklyn club.

His career, highly colorful and spectacular, covered the whole scope of baseball development from the stage of an afternoon pastime to one of the country's great institutions. He became associated with the Brooklyn club in 1883, having accepted the position of secretary to Charles Byrne. Ebbets was, at the time of his death, the senior member of the National league.

Always aggressive, Ebbets was ever a prominent figure. His fiery characteristics and progressive ideas did not always find favor with his colleagues, and he became entangled in numerous controversies.

His honesty and sincerity of purpose, however, always got him a respectful hearing. Many of the laws and rules of the game were due directly and indirectly to his persistency.

Financial independence did not come to the "Squire" until late in life—after the erection of Ebbets field in 1913, and his friends pointed to it as the crowning achievement of Ebbets' career. He had built his stadium at a time when baseball interest in Brooklyn was at a low ebb.

In 1898 Ebbets succeeded Byrne as president of the Brooklyn club, Byrne having died. It was at a trying period when finances were low and the teams representing Brooklyn were uniformly unsuccessful. It was necessary to economize that Ebbets personally managed the field work of the team for a part of 1898.

The turning point for the better came with the appointment of Wilbert Robinson as manager in 1914. New capital was brought into the enterprise through the affiliation of the McKeever brothers, Stephen W. and Edward J. In 1916 Robinson produced a pennant winner. This freed the club from financial worry and since then, together with Sunday baseball and another pennant, Ebbets and his partners accumulated a fortune.

Six Clubs Qualify For League Berths

Newell, Chester, Wellsville, and Three City Teams Win Places in City Industrial Circuit.

FILLING the necessary financial forfeits, six district baseball clubs qualified last night for memberships in the City Industrial league at a meeting of baseball fans in the chamber of commerce rooms.

Several other local clubs, it was announced, are considering places in the circuit. Whether additions to the present membership will be approved will be decided at a session which will be held next week.

The teams taking the preliminary steps for berths in the loop included Trotter-Chevrolet, Laughlin Newell, Babcock and Wilcox, Knowles, Taylor and Knowles, Chester and Wellsville.

The allotment of players and other preliminaries will be made by the club managers following several caucuses to be held before the next meeting of the league.

The team managers include John Fowler, of Trotter-Chevrolet; Barney Bricelin, of the Newell Laughlins; J. Quinn, Babcock-Wilcox; Harry Simcox, of Knowles, Taylor and Knowles; Frank Riley, of Chester, and Dewey Morgan, Wellsville.

Tagging The Bases

The lioness only has one cub, but it is a lion. Joe Judge only got two hits, but one of them was a homer off Shawkey with the bases filled and the Senators made it three out of four by beating the Yankees, 6 to 1.

Continuing their shelling of enemy sharp shooters, the Cubs again beat the Pirates, 9 to 6, home runs by Statz and Hartnett, the latter's fourth in three days, being the deciding feature.

"After you, my dear Gaston," said Joe Shaute of Cleveland, but forgot his manners and stepped in front of the St. Louis pitcher to a 1 to 0 decision in the best pitched game of the season to date.

Blankenship and Lyons had nothing but an empty sleeve and the Tigers socked their way to a 9 to 3 verdict over the White Sox.

Wayland Dean enjoyed one of those personal triumphs at Boston. He not only shut the Braves right out, 2 to 0, but drove in the first run with a single.

The rampant Reds finally were brought up short by the Cardinals, 8 to 6, when two hits and an error staked the Rickey outfit to a pair of runs in the eleventh.

Groves, making his second start of the season, again was wilder than a week's growth and the Red Sox finally beat the Athletics, 4 to 3, in a game curtailed by rain.

Cardinals Cop Final Contest With Redlegs

CINCINNATI, April 18.—St. Louis broke Cincinnati's winning streak of three straight games by taking the final game of the series yesterday in 11 innings, 8 to 6.

The Reds, coming from behind, made the score 6-6 in the seventh. Two hits and a muffed throw gave the Cardinals two runs and the game in the eleventh.

Acmes To Practice.

The Acme baseball club will practice Monday evening at 5 o'clock, officials announced today. The following players are asked to report: Mart Dyer, Leslie Gorney, Otis Amos, Charles Mackey, Charles Dyer, Obbet Scott, Joseph Kinney, Elmer Carey, Ray Sayres, James Manypenny, Harold Amos and Duard Kibble. team managers looking for games are asked to phone Charles Dyer, manager, 1801-M.

Scholastics Crush Newell Squad, 14-2

English Allows West Virginia Tossers Five Scattered Blows and Strikes Out Eight.

Clubbing the offerings of Campbell and Drumm all over the lot, the East Liverpool Scholastics hung up their second victory yesterday afternoon when they crushed the Newell high school nine by a 14 to 2 tally.

Paul English, twirling for the Scholastics, let the Newell tossers down with five scattered hits. He fanned eight of the enemy.

Campbell started the game for the Hancock countians but was driven to the showers in the third, Drumm taking his place in the box.

Captain "Chuck" McConville and Schneidmiller were the batting heroes of the clash, McConville pasting out two doubles and an infield smack in five times up. Schneidmiller straightened the Newell heaver's curves for two doubles and a single.

The Scholastics scored two in the first frame when Dawson walked and went home on McConville's double past third. Schneidmiller's single scored McConville. One hit and five Newell errors were responsible for another run for the Scholastics in the second, and in the third, the locals counted five more on two doubles and four singles. Campbell was derricked and Drumm faced the opposition bats. The locals added another run in the fourth, one in the sixth and three more in the seventh when Dawson hit for two sacks, McConville beat out an infield hit and both advanced on a passed ball. P. English walked, filling the sacks, and Schneidmiller cleaned the paths with a slashing two-bagger to center.

Newell scored a run in the third. Laneve reaching first on Schneidmiller's error. He stole second and went home on Pugh's two sacker. The Newell lads tallied their second and final run in the fourth.

RICKARD LAYS HIS PLANS FOR DEMPSEY BOUT

Promoter Assured Champion Has Not Broken With Kearns.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Reassured by Jack Dempsey's signed statement from Los Angeles, denying a contemplated break in his relations with Jack Kearns, the champion's man of business, Tex Rickard began laying active plans today for a Dempsey meeting hereabouts this summer. Rickard has Tom Gibbons in mind as the party of the second part but is prepared to shift his attention to Harry Wills in the event that the New York State Athletic commission adheres to its determination to make Dempsey accept Wills' defi.

The enterprise, if satisfactorily concluded will be Rickard's one and only big shot of the outdoor season.

Those close to the promoter declare that he has allowed others to step in and grab Gibbons and Tuney, Wills and Weinert and other matches of comparative prominence because he is concentrating on a heavyweight championship bout and none other. Rickard, they say, will be very active next week when Dempsey arrives in New York enroute upon a honeymoon tour of Europe.

There will be a showdown before the champion sails, and many believe that Rickard and Dempsey will reach a thorough understanding on the immediate future. The general idea here is that Kearns may be in the background during the negotiations, Dempsey being a strong Rickard man while Kearns has given indications of shifting his allegiance elsewhere. This difference of opinion on Rickard, it is said, has been more than a minor factor in the strained relations believed to have existed between the champion and his manager.

It is believed to be one of the reasons Kearns did nothing about the commission's ultimatum on Wills while here several weeks ago. He knew Dempsey wanted Rickard and he himself desired to do business elsewhere. Charles L. Henderson, in the throes of building a mammoth bowl at Long Island City is understood to be Kearns' choice of promoter. Henderson is said to have made Kearns an offer that no sane man would refuse. It is not in actual dollars, but in terms of successive percentages that would net Dempsey and Kearns close to $800,000 for a Wills match. Henderson is not interested in Gibbons for Championship purposes.

Tartans Start Grid Practice Next Week

PITTSBURGH, April 18.—Carnegie Tech will start spring football practice next week with a squad of 50 or more candidates, making the third successive year that the Tartan gridders have worked out in the spring. Head Coach Steffen will outline his plans for the coming season while he is here over the week-end. Practice sessions will continue daily until the end of April in charge of Assistant Coaches Waddell and Marks.

Already numerous entries have been received by Student Manager E. C. Frazier for Carnegie's ninth annual interscholastic track and field meet May 9. It is announced everything is in readiness for the greatest meet in the Skibos' history.

Carnegie opened her home baseball season on Wednesday by defeating the strong Juniata college nine, 8-6. Paul Conrad, pitching ace of the Tartans, was chosen captain for the remainder of the year. He is a senior in commercial engineering, and a graduate of Oil City high school. Conrad made his letter in basketball, and is a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

He Wants His Smoke More Than Wife; Files Action for Divorce

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April—Captain Arthur Marshall, of Engine Company 4, likes to smoke; but when he was off duty and wanted to smoke he had to duck down cellar. His wife forbade him to smoke his pipe in the house proper because smoke discolored the curtains and interfered with her health, he declared in court.

So Captain Marshall decided he would seek a divorce and filed suit in Middlesex Superior Court charging his wife, Orianna, with desertion.

Mrs. Marshall has filed a cross-suit asking separation on the grounds of cruelty.

Stomach Distress?

"I have never taken a medicine that I can so highly recommend for indigestion and stomach trouble as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I was all run down in health, my food just would not digest, gas would form, and it would feel as if I had a hard lump in my stomach. I suffered great distress and got so weak and run down that I could scarcely drag myself around. I was advised to take the "Golden Medical Discovery," which I did, and it relieved me of all stomach trouble. I could eat anything I wished without distress. The "Discovery" built me up in health all over. Aside from being good for the stomach, it is a wonderful building tonic and blood medicine."—Mrs. Catherine Snyder, 3232 N. Erie street, Toledo.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

Stanislau Zbyszko, Polish wrestler, wins a match against "Big Wayne" Munn in two straight falls. And Zbyszko is aged 56.

His power helps you to understand how "the old man" in the cave days could drive the young men away from the valley and over the mountains to seek their fortunes and their wives, keeping the young women for himself and thus preventing too much inbreeding.

If men today led a sane life they would be stronger at 60 than at any earlier age physically as well as mentally.

Whatever you think of old-fashioned miracles, you can't dispute the miracles of science. A doctor consulted by a patient a thousand miles away ordered an X-ray of the patient's hand. In seven minutes the X-ray photograph of the hand, showing the bones, cartilages, etc., was sent over the telephone wire from the patient in New York to the doctor in Chicago.

Suppose anybody had predicted that 50 years ago and 200 years ago. If the thing had been done, everybody concerned would have been locked up accused of witchcraft.

Russell Scott, a very young man, would have been executed in Chicago today except for a postponement. While waiting to be executed, Scott was working at a crossword puzzle and working the dials of a radio machine, smoking cigarets to soothe himself.

A stock and bond salesman, before he took to robbery and murder as a shortcut to wealth, this young man puzzles reporters. He refuses religious consolation, telling sisters of charity that call on him:

"You know, sisters, I am afraid I have read too much. If I have any religion, it is that of Darwinism."

A Mohammedan would urge this young man to turn to Allah, as his prophet. A primitive Patagonian would advise him to make his peace with Setebas. And, a man from Tibet would tell him to rely on the Dalai Llama, and a good "prayer mill."

Many good men will say, "Ah, Darwinism; there you have the secret of the young man's downfall."

Darwin, however, never committed robbery or murder, and didn't recommend either. The trouble with this young man is not too much reading or knowing too much, but too little reading and knowing too little.

Our great fleet of battleships, cruisers, etc., is carrying on "mimic warfare" in the Pacific ocean. The theory is that somebody is trying to take the Hawaiian islands from us and we are trying to prevent it.

Theoretically, our great battleships that cost 50 or 60 million dollars apiece, and become almost immediately obsolete, are winning wonderful victories over the imaginary enemy.

If we really had a war in the Pacific and some well equipped Asiatic power said, "You won't let us have a slice of California, so we take Hawaii," what would really happen?

The imaginary Asiatic power possessing common sense and modern flying machines, both of which our army and navy lack, would send over flying machines, sink our glorious fifty-million-dollar battleships, cruisers and other floating junk.

Then, under protecting "barrage" from the sky, they would send troops and more flyers and planes in big freight ships and ask: "What are you going to do about it?"

The Chicago public library seeks to discourage the reading of trash, and that is useful, if you define correctly the word "trash." Young minds like young stomachs need food easily absorbed. You don't feed tough beefsteak to a six months' old baby, or give "hard books" to a 12-year-old child.

Many parents underestimate the intelligence of children, and others don't realize that what a child reads and hears between 7 and 15 years of age, does more than all else, except heredity, to decide the child's future success and value.

A boy or girl of 10 will take more interest in old English ballads, telling about Robin Hood, or the battle of Chevy Chase, than in some trashy "story." A 10-year-old girl will read the story of Oliver Twist, Ivanhoe, or the good old-fashioned "Little Women." And, such books will make her a better woman and a better mother.

Literary trash is the curse of the young mind today. As food trash is the curse of the stomach.

Doctors announce that prohibition is causing insanity. "Wild bootleg drinking parties are given. They tear down the mental fiber and directly cause insanity."

Prohibitionists presumably will reply, "don't blame prohibition. Anybody that would drink bootleg whisky, must be crazy to begin with."

Emmons-Carpenter Measure Put on Statute Books Over Veto of Gov. Donahey as Legislature Recesses.

ABOLISHES FIVE JUSTICE COURTS

Mayor is Relieved of Duty of Hearing Police Cases, While Civil Actions Under $1,500 May be Tried Here.

Overriding the veto of Governor A. V. Donahey, who twice disapproved the measure, the state legislature, last night, re-passed the Emmons-Carpenter bill, providing for the establishment of a municipal court in East Liverpool on January 1, 1926.

The house of representatives adopted the measure by a vote of 91 to 12, late yesterday afternoon. The bill was then rushed to the senate where Senator Harry Carpenter was successful in having it placed on the "jitney" calendar and also passed by an overwhelming majority.

The measure becomes a law in 90 days.

Abolishes Justice Courts.

The bill abolishes four of the five justice of the peace courts in Liverpool township and the mayor's court in the municipality on next December 31. The commission of Justice C. W. Powell does not expire for two years. It is likely that Attorney General Crabbe will be asked to make a ruling as to whether or not this commission will be effective after the new court becomes operative.

Two of the four justices who retire this year—William M. Hill and Miss Maud Gill—were appointed to fill unexpired terms. The commissions of the other two—J. H. Burgess and P.

NIGHT SESSION

Expect State Executive to Reject Bible Reading Measure.

COLUMBUS, April 18.—The Ohio general assembly today wound up one of the most colorful sessions in recent years and recessed for all practical purposes until Dec. 31, 1926, the last day if its life.

Writing a clear cut issue of legislative responsibility for the accomplishments of the session and accepting repeated challenges by Governor Donahey, the legislature, in its last session which lasted until 1:55 o'clock this morning, rode roughshod over 34 executive vetoes of important Republican program measures. Passed the Buchanan Bible bill to the governor and enacted relatively few new bills.

Several perfunctory sessions will be necessary next week to permit signing by presiding officers of bills passed in the last flurry, but officially the general assembly has finished with legislation. The fate of the Bible bill, center of repeated battles, rests with Gov. Donahey. He is expected to veto the measure but the legislature does not propose to return to act on the veto.

Legislators Return Home.

Legislators as they prepared to leave for their homes were discussing what further action might be expected by Gov. Donahey in his fight against the

EMMONS BILLS ARE APPROVED

The senate, by a vote of 30 to 0, approved a measure, which authorizes the appointment of deputies in various parts of counties to issue hunters' licenses.

By the terms of the bill, the county auditor would be empowered to name township and village clerks deputy license clerks.

The other measure adopted was the East Liverpool municipal court proposal.

BULGARS' HARSH ACTION CURBS REBELS AFTER SOFIA TRAGEDY

Communist Outbreak Suppressed Following Killing of 150.

NATION MOURNS

Further Revolutionary Attempt is Believed Unlikely.

LONDON, April 18—The British foreign office announced today the allies had granted permission to the Bulgarian government to recruit 3,600 additional soldiers to handle the situation at Sofia. Unofficial reports placed the total dead at 160. Police were patrolling the streets.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 18.—Bulgaria's harsh measures to suppress the Communist outbreak planned to follow the bombing of the Sveti Kral cathedral here, in which 150 persons were killed, apparently were successful today.

Although great excitement still prevailed throughout the country, the immediate declaration of a military rule and mobilization of all armed forces to guard against a radical uprising had effectually prevented further disorders, according to reports from all sections. It was believed a further revolutionary attempt was unlikely.

Increase Army Strength.

The tragedy which claimed such a toll of lives at the cathedral during the funeral services for General Gheorghieff, himself the victim of an assassin's bullet, appeared to have solidified the nation.

Woman Is Injured When Run Down By D. O. Webb's Auto

Miss Odessie Owen Struck by Car at Fifth and Washington Streets as She Attempts to Cross.

Miss Odessie Owen, aged about 28, of 135 Mulberry street, is in the City hospital suffering from a fracture of the right wrist and bruises and cuts about the face and shoulders, as a result of being run down by an automobile driven by D. O. Webb, Avondale street, at the corner of Fifth and Washington streets, at 2:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Webb, who was traveling west on Fifth street, who had stopped in front of the new Potters' National bank to permit a River road bus, headed north on Washington street, to pass, started his machine just as Miss Owen attempted to cross Fifth street from Erlanger's to the Ogilvie store.

The woman was caught by one fender of the car and dragged several feet. Webb, with the assistance of bystanders, placed the woman in the car and took her to the hospital, where she was attended by Dr. C. H. Bailey.

Patrolman William Lister made an investigation of the accident and went to the hospital where he obtained Webb's story. Webb later went to the city hall, where he reported the accident.

An X-ray examination of Miss Owen's injuries was made this morning.

Tinney said he was approached by the highwayman while walking along a country road to his home from Steubenville. A gun was thrust in his face, he said, and before he could comply with the command to throw up his hands, the man struck him over the head. Regaining consciousness, he walked to the home of a near by farmer, William Thomas, who reported the affair to the sheriff.

TRUE STORY OF PAUL REVERE'S RIDE UPSETS DETAILS OF POPULAR LEGENDS ON 150TH ANNIVERSARY

Was it the American-born wife of the British commander, General Thomas Gage, who upset her husband's secret plans to swoop down on Lexington, by warning the patriots, thus paving the way for Paul Revere's famous ride?

There is historical foundation for the assertion, which is again being discussed by historians of the American Revolution as the nation observes the 150th anniversary of the battle of Lexington.

One of the earliest accounts of the affair says "A daughter of liberty sent word by a trusty hand to Mr. Samuel Adams, residing in company with Mr. (John) Hancock, about 13 miles from Charlestown, that the troops were coming out in a few days.' Several historical writers confirm the belief that this "daughter of liberty' was Mrs. Gage, who was the daughter of Peter Kembel, president of the council of New Jersey.

Relative to what followed, what can be more interesting or authentic than Paul Revere's own written narrative? (The reader will note many differences between this account and the popular version of Longfellow's poem. For instance, Dawes was well on his way over a much longer route through Brookline before Revere started).

"The Saturday night preceding the 19th of April, about 12 o'clock at night, the boats belonging to the transports were all launched, and carried under the sterns of the men-of-war. We likewise found that the grenadiers and light infantry were all taken off duty.

The Truth About the Lights.

"From these movements we expected something serious was to be transacted. On Tuesday evening, the 18th, it was observed that a number of soldiers were marching toward the bottom of the common. About 10 o'clock, Dr. Warren sent in great haste for me, and begged that I would immediately set off for Lexington, where Messrs. Hancock and Adams were, and acquaint them of the movement, and that it was thought they were the object. When I got to Dr. Warren's home I found he had sent an express by land to Lexington—a Mr. William Dawes. The Sunday before, by desire of Dr. Warren, I had been to Lexington, to Messrs. Hancock and Adams, who were at the Rev. Mr. Clark's. I returned at night through Charlestown; there I agreed with a Colonel Conant and some other gentlemen that if the British were out by water we would show two lanterns in the North Church steeple; and if by land, one as a signal; for we were apprehensive it would be difficult to cross the Charles river. I left Dr. Warren, called upon a friend, and desired him to make the signals. I then went home, took my boots and surtout, went to the north part of the town, where I kept a boat; two friends rowed me across the Charles river a little to the eastward where the Somerset man-of-war lay. It was then young flood, the ship was winding, and the moon was rising.

"They landed me on the Charlestown side. When I got into town, I met Colonel Conant and several others; they said they had seen our signals."

Revere did not have to wait for the signals to be "flashed from the signal tower;" the inference is that they had been displayed and extinguished before he reached the Charlestown side.

A Pleasant Ride.

"I set off upon a very good horse; it was then about 11 o'clock, and very pleasant. After I had passed Charlestown Neck, and got nearly opposite where Mark was hung in chains, I saw two men on horseback under a tree. When I got near them I discovered they were British officers. One tried to get ahead of me, and the other to take me. I turned my horse very quick and galloped toward Charlestown Neck, and then pushed for the Medford road. The one who chased me, endeavoring to cut me off, got into a clay pond, near where the new tavern is now built; I got clear of him, and went through Medford, over the bridge, and up to Monotony. In Medford I awakened the captain of the Minutemen, and after that I alarmed almost every house till I got to Lexington.

"I found Messrs. Hancock and Adams at the Rev. Mr. Clark's; I told them my errand, and inquired for Mr. Dawes; they said he had not been there; I related the story of the two officers, and supposed that he must have been stopped, as he ought to have been there before me. After I had been there about half an hour Mr. Dawes came; we refreshed ourselves, and set off for Concord to secure the stores, etc., there.

"We were overtaken by a young Dr. Prescott, whom we found to be a high Son of Liberty. I told them of the 10 officers that Mr. Davens met, and that it was probable we might be stopped before we got to Concord; for I supposed that after night they divided themselves; and that two of them had fixed themselves in such passages as were most likely to stop any intelligence going to Concord. I likewise mentioned that we had better alarm all the inhabitants till we got to Concord; the young doctor much approved it, and said he would stop with either of us, for the people between that and Concord knew him and would give the more credit to what we said. We had got nearly half way; Mr. Dawes and the doctor stopped to alarm the people of a house; I was about 100 rods ahead,

RIGID ECONOMY, COOLIDGE PLEA

Urges Precept by Government in Radio Address.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—By precept and example, the federal government should impress constantly upon the citizenry of the nation the prime importance of efficiency and economy, President Coolidge declares today in a radio address, opening the Women's World fair in Chicago.

"If the people, in the daily management of their modest domestic affairs, note that the great interests of their governments and of their semi-public institutions are dealt with in a spirit of laxity and a mood of carelessness," the executive declared, "they find little inspiration to apply better methods in the management of their own concerns.

"The great business operations which are constantly under the public eye ought to be handled so as to make them an example in sound proceedure."

Mr. Collidge's remarks anent the merits of the economy he so strongly preaches were occasioned by the method in which the finances of the fair which he was opening were conducted. Working under a strict budget he told his radio audience the women responsible for the exposition had been enabled to open the doors with every dollar of expense already met and a comfortable margin of profit assured.

"The importance of sound business methods was never so great as it is today," he said, "and it is particularly true that government business should be placed on a basis of rigid economy."

present make-up of the state utilities commission, following rejection by the senate of his appointees. Little doubt was entertained but that the governor would renew the fight as soon as he determined upon a course of action.

The wind-up session was humdrum, the Republican machine working smoothly in passing measures agreed upon and in over-riding those vetoed acts which the majority had determined to enact into law. Sergeants-at-arms were posted at the doors of both houses throughout the night. Members were forced to stay until the job was finished. When the two houses recessed, most of them caught early trains for their homes, well satisfied to end their legislative toil.

Important acts of the legislature included among the bills passed over the executive vetoes:

The Brown bill, levying a tax of two cents a gallon gasoline sold for consumption on Ohio highways, receipts of which will be used to build up state, county and city highways.

The six major tax relief bills, including the Dempsey corporation tax bill. All except the Dodd special levy bill and the Krueger standarization bond issue bill were passed over vetoes.

Re-apprporiation of $2,019,000 slashed by Gov. Donahey from the general appropriation bill.

Auto Tag Bill in List

The Lipp bill rewriting motor vehicle regulation laws, creating a motor vehicle commissioner, giving county auditors the task of colecting auto tag fees, and permitting a collection fee of 15 cents.

The McCreary-Davidson bill, appropriating $100,000 for investigation by the attorney-general and state utilities commission of proposed telephone state increase.

The Miller bill appropriating $100,000 for an Ohio building at the Philadelphia sesqui-centennial exposition in 1926.

On seven executive vetoes were permitted to stand. These were of animportant bills and action on them was determined upon before the Republican steam roller went into action.

Two special legislative committees will work during the recess, preparing codifications of the tax and election laws. If the reports are ready nex tspring, the two houses will be called back into session by leaders to permit enactment of the codes. Otherwise, the 86th general assembly will pass into history.

True Story

when I saw two men, in nearly the same situation as those officers were, near Charlestown. I called for the doctor and Mr. Dawes to come up; in an instant I was surrounded by four; they had placed themselves in a straight road, that inclined each way; they had taken down a pair of bars on the north side of the road, and two of them were under a tree in the pasture. The doctor, being foremost, he came up, and we tried to get past them; but they being armed with pistols and swords, they forced us into the pasture; the doctor jumped his horse over a low stone wall, and got to Concord."

Revere was captured and questioned, but regained his freedom in time to see the battle.

WHEELER FACES FEDERAL FIRE

Prosecution Unlooses Heavy Guns at Senator's Trial.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., April 18.—The prosecution unloosed the heavy guns in its arsenal today in attempting to convict Senator Burton K. Wheler (Democrat) of Montana in federal court here on charges of illegally accepting a fee to present a client before the Interior department.

The government's attack on Wheeler was the signal for another sharp outbreak of quarreling between opposing counsel, each side frequently trying to block the other's introduction of testimony and manner of interrogating witnesses.

Quickly disposing of formalities and preliminaries of the trial, John L. Slattery, U. S. district attorney, through documents and witnesses, sought directly to prove Wheeler actually was paid by Gordon Campbell, Montana prospector, to handle oil permits before federal authorities.

The defense admitted that Wheeler received $4,000 from Campbell, but insisted that the money was for practice in Montana court only and that Wheeler never agreed to, and actually did not, obtain government oil concessions.

The whole case, therefore, as it shoped up today after two days trial, hinged on whether Wheeler was paid the $4,000 with the understanding that he was to, or did, use his influence after election as senator to help straighten out Campbell's difficulties over permits.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 18.—Motor stocks continued their spectacular upward movement in the short session the stock market today. Shorts in Maxwell B were badly squeezed when the price of that stock was pushed by the bulls to above 89. There was a near panic as the bears rushed into cover short sales made when the reorganization plan was announced and when the stock was selling 25 points lower. Mack Trucks climbed sensationally and reached a new high at 150¾, completing a gain of 30 points on the present more.

While other active motor stocks were fairly active, there was not sufficient demand for them to push them to higher levels. The rally in General Motors, Moon, Packard and other active motor stocks, seemed to have suffered a reaction for the time being but motor accessories, including Fiske Rubber, U. S. Rubber, Stromburg Carburetor, etc., moved upward a point or more.

Industrial stocks were strong and active and the oil stocks threw off the reactionary tone which held them back in the last few days. Baldwin Locomotive sold up two points to 117 in the first hour, American Can, U. S. Steel, General Electric moved up a point or more, while Cast Iron Pipe at 159 showed a gain of seven points from yesterday's low.

Further contraction in many lines of industry was reported by the principal trade agencies, which also noted a continued decline in commodity prices. This is most noticeable in the metal markets, where copper, zinc and lead have declined to the lowest price levels for the year to date. Cotton prices retained practically all of yesterday's gains and grain markets were slightly reactionary at the opening.

Prices in every section of the market bounded along to the highest levels for the current movement in the most active Saturday's session in a month or more. Transactions in the first hour aggregation 429,000 shares.

V. Mackall—expire on December 31.

The passage of the measure ends a fight which began several years ago. Sufficient support was mustered two years ago to have the measure introduced in the legislature, but after passing both the house and the senate it was vetoed by Governor Donahey, who said he opposed the establishment of additional municipal courts until a uniform practices bill could be approved. No attempt was made at that time to pass the measure over the chief executive's veto.

Plan Is Endorsed.

With the endorsement of the Southern Columbiana County Bar association, Chamber of Commerce, Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, Trades and Labor council, the American Legion and other organizations, State Representative Ralph W. Emmons, of East Rochester, introduced the measure at the present session of the assembly. It passed the house and the senate and was sent to the governor. The chief executive rejected the measure, while law makers were in recess.

Through an agreement which Representative Emmons and Senator Carpenter had with legislative leaders, it was promised that should the measure be rejected it would be taken up for passage when the legislature reconvened.

Nearly fifty telegrams to leaders in both the house and senate went out from East Liverpool Wednesday urging the adoption of the measure over the governor's veto. These telegrams were sent out under the signatures of several organizations backing the bill and also business and professional men.

Provisions of Measure.

The bill provides for the election of a judge at a salary of not less than $4,100 per year, of which $2,100 will be paid by the city, $1,800 by the county and $200 by Liverpool township. Council is authorized to increase the judge's salary, but it shall not exceed $4,500 per year. The salary of the clerk shall be $1,800, of which $1,500 would be paid by the city and $300 by the county. The bailiff's salary shall be $1,200, to be paid by the city.

The judge and clerk shall be named for terms of four years. The bailiff is appointive. The bill requires that the judge shall have had at least five years' active law practice and be a resident of the city or township.

The court will have jurisdiction over all cases involving claims up to $1,500 as well as misdemeanors and criminal cases not requiring grand jury action.

The court will likely be conducted on the second floor of city hall, which is owned jointly by the city and township.

Municipal Ferry Hits Sister Ship in New York

NEW YORK, April 18.—The lives of 1,000 passengers on the municipal ferry boat Queens were endangered today when the vessel crashed into the Bronx, her sister ship, which was tied up at slip No. 1 off the Battery. Owing to the dense pall of fog which settled over New York and vicinity, Captain McCafferty, of the Queens, did not see the Bronx and was attempting to pilot his vessel into the slip.

Although the Queens was so badly smashed that she was put out of commission, no passengers were injured. They rushed astern to safety when the Bronx loomed up out of the fog.

An investigation to fix the blame for the accident was ordered by William W. Mills, commissioner of the department of plants and structures.

"Bulgaria is passing through its mostmost difficult period," he said. "Discoveries of Communist activities coupled with the events of the last few days, prove that the country is the object of a campaign which aims at the destrcution of peace and order.

"The government has irreputable proof that, apart from the activities of subversive elements in Bulgaria, there has been collaboration from abroad. The government is taking the necessary precautions, but it is hindered by lack of means and hopes for the benevolence of the powers."

The demand of Bulgaria for an increase of 4,000 in the army in view of the Communist dangers, has been granted by the inter-allied military commission providing the new draft is made up of volunteers. The permission is also subject to the approval of the council of ambassadors.

Two hundred volunteers already have been enrolled.

Court Costs Too High; Detectives Will "Take Medicine"

James Hayes, Fred Bullerdiek and Robert Kinney, the defendants, said today they would rather go to jail than pay the high legal costs of trying to fight their way through the U. S. circuit court of appeals and the supreme court.

A Hint for Beginners

The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded step below.

WATER PRESSURE IS INCREASED

Given ample opportunity to test out the new municipal water system as a result of several fires which have occurred since the Yellow creek water has been turned into the city mains, replacing the river source, city firemen and other officials express the opinion that citizens need hold little fear of insufficient water pressure for fire-fighting purposes, a doubt that was freely expressed during the construction of the new system.

Although the dam in Little Yellow creek now impounds water to a depth of a little more than 10 or 12 feet, a pressure of approximately 80 pounds is available at the present time. A recent test made in Eighteenth street showed an increase in pressure of approximately 20 pounds.

P. R. R. LEADS IN NEW PROJECTS

The Yellow Creek "Y," the Canton-Bayard cut-off, the new Panhandle bridge at Steubenville, and the four-track road along the Beaver river near New Brighton, Pa., are four of the construction projects listed as part of the biggest expansion program attempted by railroads in Ohio in many years.

The Pennsylvania's largest improvement in its central region in several years is the cut-off being started between Bayard and Canton. It will cost about $4,500,000 and the fourteen miles of track will save by about the same distance the length of the freight run from Canton, O., on the eastern division, to Cleveland & Pittsburgh division.

The raising of the Cleveland and Pittsburgh division's tracks in Cleveland between Cedar and Holton avenue S. E. will be almost completed by next fall, this year's share of the expense to be about $3,500,000.

The new "Y" being started at Yellow Creek, O., will cost $900,000. It will eliminate the Wellsville transfer.

Not to mention the Cleveland Union terminal, there are track, yard, station, and dock projects under way or authorized within 100 miles of Cleveland, which come to about $18,000,000 in cost. Most of the amount will be spent in 1925.

The Pennsylvania is doing by far the largest share of this work so far. Its seven or eight major projects within this territory require the expenditure of more than $13,000,000.

At Toledo the Pennsylvania is finishing $2,000,00 improvements at Wallbridge yards. At Sandusky, O., it is building a coal loading machine. At Ashtabula, O., it is increasing the storage capacity of docks at a cost of $150,000. At Steubenville, O., it is building a new bridge over the Ohio river costing about $1,500,000.

An improvment that will facilitate freight movement from this territory into Pittsburgh is the construction of a four-track railroad along the left bank of the Beaver river near New Brighton, Pa., and this job, with a new bridge over the Beaver is costing $3,500,000.

EAST LIVERPOOL — AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

SATURDAY, APRIL 18, 1925.

Municipal Court Bill Enacted

East Liverpool's proposed municipal court has been established by legislative act.

The bill sponsored by Representative R. W. Emmons, of East Rochester, in the house, and supported by Senator M. Carpenter, in the upper branch, was passed over Gov. A. V. Donahey's veto by the general assembly yesterday afternoon and last night.

The measure, which was approved by Trades and Labor council, Chamber of Commerce, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs and the Southern Columbiana County Bar association as well as scores of civic leaders, was re-enacted by a vote of 91 to 12 in the lower chamber of the legislature. In the upper house, the vote was also overwhelming.

Under the provisions of the legislation, the act becomes operative on Jan. 1 next.

Its enactment means the abolition of five justice of the peace courts in Liverpool township, discontinuance of the mayor's police court and the assignment of civil actions, in which the claims are not in excess of $1,500, to a municipal judge. Its supporters are confident that the court will not only be self-sustaining, but will also be a means of revenue for the city. And, too, it is certain to prove a time saver as well as reduce court costs and traveling expenses of principals in litigation.

And with the measure a law, careful attention should now be given to the selection of the first judge in order that the court may function properly and creditably to its citizenship.

Flivver Parts By Air

Commercial aviation starts. Henry Ford opens a pioneer line from Detroit to Chicago, not for passengers but for freight. It will carry Ford mail, Ford money and small Ford parts, to the extent of half a ton per trip.

Thus the Ford Motor company, says Edsel Ford, is merely extending its transportation system. It is not making planes for the purpose, but buying them. It wants to use airplanes along with railroads, motor trucks and steamships in carrying on its great business. Ultimately it expects to have air routes branching from its plants in all directions, for long distances.

The experiment will be watched with all the more interest because some of the aviation sharps lately have been saying that the airplane was not good for freight—only for mail and passengers. Henry Ford has a way of refuting experts and making the impractical possible. If he succeeds, other manufacturers and merchants will follow his example.

Anyway, here is another evidence of the new life suddenly breathed into aviation in this country. On all sides landing fields are being laid out, routes projected and equipment made ready. It is going to be an interesting year for flying.

Baedeker Passes

Millions of people must have heard with a sentimental stirring of old memories the news of Fritz Baedeker's death. He might be called the Henry Ford of travel. He spent his life standardizing and simplifying the art of touring, following in the footsteps of his father, Karl Baedeker. He had been 66 years on the job when he died, the other day, at 81, still working on a new guidebook.

Many individualists deplore Baedeker and what he stood for, as they deplore fivvers. Many do not want to go where everybody else goes, and see what everybody else sees, and think the prescribed thoughts and feel the prescribed emotions common to all the tribe of guidebook devotees. They prefer to go their own way, ignoring the double-starred scenes and buildings and art works if they choose, setting their own pace and making their own selections, and treating themselves to surprises occasionally instead of knowing before hand all they are going to see and being introduced automatically to every new experience.

That, perhaps, is the better way to travel for him who has time and money and ideas of his own about traveling. For the multitude, Baedeker and his kind have done much, enabling them to see, rather easily and quickly, a world that might otherwise have been closed to them. Better a standardized, stereotyped trip to another land, herded with a crowd, than fossilizing at home. And people who like flocking together and having their way smoothed find that the ideal system.

The federal bureau of public roads, investigating the psychology of "road hogs," finds that the truck driver is not so porcine as he has been pictured. Truck drivers as a class, the official obesrvers report, drive one foot closer to the outside of the pavement than automobilists do, in order to give an approaching car enough clearance. So it really is the motor car drivers who are the road hogs.

Both classes are bad enough, at times, as every driver knows. But when a truck driver hugs the middle of the road and ignores the warning toot of a car behind that wants to pass, he usually has the excuse of seeking safety for his truck and cargo or of not hearing the horn. The automobilist who dawdles along the middle of the paved strip and refuses to get over seldom has any excuse whatever, unless it be that Nature has made him egotistic, selfish, stolid and discourteous. Of all driving pests, there is none more intolerable.

That MacMillan expedition may discover an Arctic continent and find where the storms come from, but we do hope it won't definitely locate Santa Claus' headquarters.

The Powerful Katrinka's Little Brother— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 18.—I find keener amusement in the New York theatres watching the orchestras than most of the play. I am constantly enthralled by the maestro of the bull fiddle. With so many flutes, why does a man select this enslaving instrument as a career?

The bull fiddler must stand while his fellows recline in easy chairs. He goes through life with this dog house strapped to his back. When he walks the paves the people get out of his way and cast him mean and annoyed glances.

When the play is over the pianist slams down the lid and walks away. The flue player slips his flute in his vest pocket and goes out to join the boys at Jake's. But the poor bull fiddler must jockey his dog house into a corner without assistance. He is the last man to leave.

I imagine in the night when he hears the fire wagon sirening through town he is tortured by the thought: "There goes the bull fiddle." He is never permitted to play a solo. Who wants to hear a bull fiddle solo? He is a sort of outcast among musicians.

Bull fiddlers are of the same mold. Little men with gold rimmed spectacles and the hunched up look of the frightened rabbit. They seem in constant fear of the conductor's baton—as though any one cared whether or not they missed a note.

I fancy the bull fiddler is the product of heredity. Uncle Gottlieb leaves a bull fiddle among his effects. Somebody has to use it and it is thrust upon the most timid member of the family. From then on he becomes a slave—a musical Moloch.

The violinist flecks the dust off his instrument with a handkerchief. The bull fiddler must take a day off now and then with polishing rags and a bucket of polish give his daily torture a chiffonier finish.

The bull fiddler getting rid of his fiddle must be somewhat like my own experience in getting rid of a masseur. I had engaged him on a morning following a day of rather violent exercise. The next morning he came and I had to permit his soothing ministrations. He was a bovine eyed, gentle type and somehow I didn't have the heart to dismiss him. Finally in desperation I hung a sign on my door: "Be back in three weeks." And that night I met him in the hall. He was back the next morning with: "Well, I see you didn't go away." He is still a diurnal visitor. But he may yet rub me the wrong way.

They tell of a hard-boiled Park Row city editor of a few years ago who would now and then hum lightly and happily to himself: "I fired six reporters today, la la!" That city editor is now a life prisoner for murder.

The Roaring Forties now has a rival in The Seething Sixties. The theatrical center is slowly sweeping up to Columbus Circle in its long, long march from 14th street. Five theatrical hits are in the neighborhood and more theatres, they say are to grace the neighborhood soon.

A New York movie director upon learning that a former flame who had several times in wrather threatened legal redress for flimsy promises of marriage took a rather mean advantage of the lady's recent marriage to another. He secured a huge and gaudy plush lined jewelry box from a smart avenue establishment and inside he placed a six pound cobble stone. When the lady opened it she found a card from him reading: "This is the weight off my mind."

A blind beggar in the neighborhood of Grand Central warns of disaster in drink. A card around his neck reads: "I was blinded drinking wood alcohol."

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 18.—Disposing of the enormous store of official documents of the United States government is becoming each year a greater and greater problem. It is difficult for the layman, unacquainted with Washington, to visualize the tons and tons of paper on which have been printed or written communications to the United States and the further tons representing copies of government replies to these communications.

Many of the documents are well housed and safely cared for, but some of the most important are not. The most conspicuous cases of perilously filed papers are presented by the Patent office, the Bureau of Census and the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

The Patent office houses the official records of the latters patent issued to inventors. While the old building is a splendid one from the architectural point of view, its interior arrangements for the protection of the papers are inadequate. Extra racks have had to be built even in the corridors of the building to make room for the constantly growing tonnage of paper. The visitor to the building is impressed by being almost everywhere surrounded by exposed stacks of paper, flimsy enough to catch fire easily.

In the early thirties a disastrous fore did occur. Patents were relatively few then compared to the million and a half now outstanding. Yet it took the government twelve years to replace the damage. By patient effort, patentees were communicated with and copies obtained from them. Again, in the seventies, a lesser fire caused more damage and again a painstaking and expensive process of recovery had to be gone through with. The task of replacing destroyed patents would now be almost insuperable and would cost a vast sum of money.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who recently took over the Patent office from the Interior department, is anxious to have the government appropriate funds for a new building providing proper and safe steel vaults.

Census Records in Danger.

The Census Bureau, which has the population records for many years back is housed in one of the temporary buildings erected during the war. The structure is of light material and while great precautions are taken to prevent fire, it is recognized that a conflagration might occur at any time. There is a positive rule against smoking in the building. The census records could not be duplicated if they were destroyed as the persons from whom the earlier data were collected are dead.

Many divisions of the Internal Revenue Bureau are located in a similar temporary war building, built largely of frame. Here are thousands upon thousands of income tax returns on which the Treasury revenue collections are based. Perhaps many people would not be sorry to see the returns destroyed, but the loss to the government would be severe. Much evidence in contested tax cases would be lost.

To go over the whole situation at Washington would require a bulky book. The Interstate Commerce Commission has tons of documents—complaints, testimony of witneses before hearings, opinions rendered and general correspondents of importance in rate and valuation cases. These are fairly well housed. The department of Justice has more important documents and now these are in a good, modern building. Before the department moved from a group of old, remodelled buildings it occupied, it was found that some of the most valuable evidence in the famous anti-trust suit against the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad had been eaten by rats.

All through the government establishment much the same situation exists. The departments are overburdened by their load of paper. In the cases of the patents, census records and some others, the documents are of enduring importance and never should be parted with, but in addition to these there is a great store of documents which are of ephemeral importance. Tons of this type of paper might well be disposed of but such destruction is a touchy subject.

There is a Federal law against the destruction of government documents in the official files and penalties are provided for destroying or even removing them temporarily from the files, without full authority being granted. The one outlet provided is not big enough to take care of the ever increasing inflow. There is a committee of congress on the Disposition of Useless Executive Papers. This committee may, after going through considerable legal red tape, authorize certain papers to be destroyed.

Someone Always Interested.

One thing which deters government officials from destroying papers or getting legislation authorizing them to make wholesale destruction, is that they find frequently that some one or some group is vitally concerned in the permanent retention of the document.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover, in discussing the problems the other day, said: "There is a lot of sentiment and emotion connected with the memorials or other various communications sent in to the government. Many regard it as a betrayal of their citizenship to have the documens of which they are the authors destroyed. Documents which are useless to the government and in which no one else is interested will have an abiding interest for someone who will resent the papers' destruction. As officials are the servants of all branches of the public, these wishes must be respected."

The older governments of Europe have a simplified system. What is called a dossier is made of every case in which any government department is interested. As a document comes along in such a case, a digest of it will be made, requiring little space. A paragraph, perhaps a single sentence, often takes the place of a massive tome, yet in a separate file. As they become old they the relegated to more remote storage and finally, when entirely out-worn, are disposed of. Thus a mere fraction of the space for documents which the United States employs is used by officials abroad.

Every householder knows how fast his garret or his cellar will fill up with newspapers, old letters and other documents unless he systematically disposed of them.

When the Mohammedans captured Alexandria, that great African metropolis boasted the greatest library in the world. The Moslem general who took the city started to destroy it but Grammaticus, a great scholar of the day, begged to have the books saved. The general agreed to refer the matter to the Caliph, the head of the Islamic faith. The message the Caliph sent back was that if there was anything contained in the library that was in the Koran, the library was superfluous and if anything that was not in the Koran it was pernicious and unlawful.

So the library was destroyed by using the books, scrolls and papers as fuel to heat the four thousand public baths of the city. An indication of the vastness of the accumulation, even in those far past centuries, may be found in the fact that the fuel heated the baths for six months.

Firmus, a paper maker of Alexandria, on another occasion, made the boast that he could pay the whole Roman army out of his own purse for an indefinite period from the profits he had made in his business.

These are indications of how much paper was used and how it accumulated in the past, so with whole forests being swept away daily to furnish pulp for American paper mills, one can see what a problem it is for the government—probably the largest recipient of communications in the nation—to handle its ever increasing supply.

CLAIM FABLED FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH, LONG SOUGHT BY MAN, IS IN SIGHT

Scientist Says Lower Forms of Life Have Been Indefinitely Prolonged by Process of Starvation.

By FRED J. WALKER.

(Copyright, 1925, by I. N. S.)

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The fabled Fountain of Youth, sought since time immemorial by man in his quest for eternal physical youth, has at last been found.

It was revealed today by Dr. A. C. Baker, entomologist of the department of agriculture, that science, by a process of starvation, has been able to indefinitely prolong lower forms of life.

But with the tragic irony of fate, man must wait for added knowledge before the discovery can be applied to his own body.

The experimentts have been carried on coincidentally by famous scientists throughout the world, notably Prof. C. M. Child, zoologist of the University of California, and J. S. Huxley, grandson of the famed bilogist.

"Huxley believes that man is on the verge of a control of life which will make our present control of inorganic matter seem small in comparison," said Dr. Baker.

"Mature flat worms have been starved into physical infancy and then fed back to maturity. The experiment was continued no less than 18 times by Prof. Child, who then stopped the work, convinced that his point had been proved.

"This means that one form of life has been artificially made to outlive 18 generations of its kind."

Half Pay Checks In America Less Than $25 a Week

CHICAGO, April—One person out of seventy-two in the United ates has an income of more than $4,000 a year, declared R. B. Cook, of Chicago, in an address at a national convention of commercial educators here.

"Fifty-three per cent of the pay envelopes of America contain less than $25 a week," said Mr. Cook. "Of the 42,000,000 people who are doing the actual work of America fewer than 4 per cent are in the class receiving above $4,000 a year. At the same time there are estimated to be 750,000 major executive positions, paying salaries up to $100,000, in the United States, and 10 per cent of these have to be refilled every year."

Barthelmess' New Picture, "Classmates," Comes to American

Richard Barthelmess' new First National production, "Classmates," which comes to the American theatre on Monday has an interesting and unusual history.

This picteresque and colorful story of West Point life was written by William De Mille and Margaret Turnbull long before either thought of motion picture associations. Now Mr. De Mille is a famous director and Miss Turnbull a widely known scenario writer. Then, however, they were strugling playwrights.

"Classmates" is based upon an actual incident at West Point. Charles Klein, one of the most successful dramatists of some twenty years ago, saw a clipping of a hazing incident at the Military Academy and took it to the theatrical manger, Harry B. Harris. Both of them saw a drama in the incident, but neither could develop the right sort of plot. In time it was turned over to Mr. De Mille and Miss Turnbull.

Upon its presentation on Broadway "Classmates" proved to be a huge success. The cast included Robert Edeson in the role now played by Barthelmess, Wallace Eddinger and Frank McIntyre. As a stage play "Classmates" ran for some four years in New York and on tour.

Dr. Charles Koenig, county health agent, in the following article calls attention to the danger of coming into "contact" with persons suffering from various diseases:

Germs that cause disease, as explained in the various article, must have heat, moisture and darkness. Such an ideal combination is furnished by the human mouth. In nearly all the communicable disease the germs are harbored in the mouth, nose and throat. In fact, that is where they become attached and grow and produce the sickness in the individual by throwing off their poisons or by themselves getting into the blood stream and being carried to other parts of the body where they grow and set up inflammation.

In order for one person who is susceptible to "catch" the disease from a person who is sick or is a carrier of the disease he must come in "contact" with the later. By contact is meant the actual touching of the infected person (carrier). Thus, if the susceptible person kiss, shake hands with, uses the same drinking cup or the same towel or wash bowl as the carrier of an infection, that is considered "actual contact." That is quite different from the old idea of "exposure." This is contact as well as exposure to an infection. This explains why some people who were exposed to an infection do not catch the disease while others do. The fact is that those who were not in actual contact did not "pick up" the infectino. Those who were in contact and did not pick up some infection may not have picked up enough to produce disease, or they may have washed the germs off their hands before they got into their noses or mouths where the disease would develop.

A person's fingers are fairly warm and moist and under the nails are grooves large enough to hold many germs. The fingers coming in contact with the nose and mouth are being continually supplied with more germs and leaving some germs in the nose or mouth.

As explained in a previous communication a handkerchief containing discharge of the nose and mouth could keep the hands of its owner constantly supplied with germs.

As can be seen from the above the hands are the most important agent in disseminating germs. Hence, the care of the hands will keep us from disseminating or catching infections. So in caring for a patient with a communicable disease the hands must be watched (also washed) carefully. They must not come in contact with the nose or mouth until washed with soap and water. Discharges from patients should be burned. Food handlers must keep their hands from their noses and mouths, and if they should happen to touch these places they should immediately wash their hands. They should not take care of food when they are sick. The hands of milkers should be thoroughly washed before milking. If caps are put on milk bottles by hand that can destroy the value of the previous pasteurization. Milk not pasteurized or capped by hand should be boiled before feeding to children.

It will be seen then that "contact" with an infected individual may be actual intimate contact, or touching or eating objects which were handled by the infected individual. In the case of the handling of objects it must be within a short time between handling and getting into the mouth of the susceptible person.

BOXING MEASURE UP TO GOVERNOR

Credit for saving the measure setting up a state athletic commission in the house of delegates is given to Representative W. J. Cotton of Ohio county, one of the most ardent supporters of the measure.

In addition to assisting in securing additional advocates for the bill, Mr. Cotton took the floor of the house yesterday afternoon and challenged the delegates to prove that the measure would affect morals of the youth of the state.

"I am a church member and attend Sunday school, as well as box suppers and other church activities," Mr. Cotton asserted, "and I do not propose to let unchallenged the misrepresentation that this measure would degenerate morals, increase gambling and have other bad effects."

The measure was also passed by the senate.

BROOKE COUNTY PICKET JAILED

Angelo Nude, said to have been acting as a picket for striking coal miners near the Pittsburgh and West Virginia coal mines at Colliers, Brooke county, was arrested last night by Constable Jones of Colliers on a warrant charging the man with trespassing on mine property without proper authority.

According to Brooke county officials Nude was stationed around the mine property as a picket and inadvertently encroached upon mine ground. He was lodged in jail at Wellsburg and will be given a hearing this afternoon.

PLANS FORMED FOR DEDICATION

New Masonic Temple to be Opened Here on May 3.

Final details have been completed for the dedicatory exercises of the new Masonic temple in Lisbon Sunday afternoon, May 3.

The affair will be under the charge of Grand Master Judge John B. Ruhl, of the Grand Lodge of Ohio, of Cleveland, and his official staff. The entire staff of the Grand Lodge will be in Lisbon with the possible exception of three officers, and these will be filled by Congressman B. Frank Murphy of Steubenville, Judge John H. Clarke of Youngstown and Frank S. Harson of Cleveland, all 33rd degree Masons.

The official staff of Judge Ruhl is composed of the following officers: Earl Stewart, Ironton; Charles L. Minor, Springfield; B. Frank Thomas, Youngstown; Horace W. Irwin, Dayton; Harry S. Johnson, Cincinnati; Otto H. Hohley, Toledo; Rev. William H. Masters, Alliance; Harry E. Englehart, Cincinnati; Herman Thiessen, Lakewood; Henry H. Squire, Sandusky; A. B. Fairchild, Ravenna; O. P. Sperla, Cincinnati.

The address in the Masonic temple following the dedicatory services will be delivered by Dr. McMasters of Mt. Union college, right worshipful grand chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Ohio.

New Lisbon lodge No. 65, F. & A. M., is one of the oldest Masonic lodges in Ohio, having been instituted January 21, 1822, under a dispensation granted for that purpose by the Grand Lodge of Ohio.

On January 16, 1923, George McCook, Elderkin Potter, Andrew Jerome and others received a charter, which the lodge still retains.

A search of the old records of this lodge reveals as active Masons during those early and trying times in this county, the names of many men whose memory is held sacred and dear to the hearts of all Lisbon people.

The first meeting place was in a two-story brick building near the present Bradbury block on West Lincoln way. In 1859 the third floor of the Benner building, at the corner of East Park way and East Lincoln way was secured by New Lisbon lodge, and for many years stated meetings were held there. These rooms were retained under lease for 31 years, when a lease was taken on the Gailey-Firestone block on East Lincoln way, the owners remodeling the building to suit the convenience of the lodge.

For 36 years the lodge continued to meet in this building, when last year it was determined to remodel the property. The work is now nearing completion, only a few details remaining to be attended to before the first meeting will be held in the new rooms next Tuesday evening.

The building was inspected Friday evening by W. S. Aldon, of Salem, district lecturer for the Grand Lodge of Ohio.

New Lisbon lodge has several members whose ages are over 70 years, some being in the 80s, among these being Martin Eaholtz, aged 88 years; Hiram Dowart, T. W. Vogan, D. H. Jackson and D. C. Porter, these being among the oldest members of the lodge. Each became a member very soon after they obtained their majority.

A special detail of traffic officers will be placed on duty in Lisbon May 3, as it is held should favorable weather prevail one of the largest crowds ever seen in Lisbon will attend the dedication of the new temple. Marshal Roy L. Lewton has enlisted the services of Sheriff George Wright and his official staff to assist in handling traffic. Special routes will be marked for motorists, so that the central part of Lisbon will be free from congestion.

A week of activity has been planned by the various Masonic bodies of Lisbon for the week following the dedication. On the evening of May 1 New Lisbon lodge will give a stag party and on the Monday following Masons and their families will be entertained. This will be known as Family night.

The annual inspection of the lodge will follow on Tuesday night and on Wednesday night Ivy chapter, Eastern Stars, will hold their first meeting in the new lodge rooms. Thursday night the Royal Arch will hold their meeting and on Friday night there will be a dinner-dance, and to this event a general invitation is to be extended to Masons and their families throughout the county.

Following this week of activity the various Masonic bodies in Lisbon will hold their meetings, according to stated schedule in their new lodge rooms.

The petition, which was filed by Attorney Frank E. Grosshans, declares that for seven or eight years Hetrick has failed to provide a home for his family.

Divorce Granted.

Because she proved that her husband has a wife by a former marriage from whom he was not divorced at the time he married her, Ella L. Gross had no trouble in obtaining a decree of divorce from Judge James G. Moore from her husband, George W. Gross. The plaintiff was restored to her maiden name, Ella L. Chappell.

Two Decrees Issued.

Three years of wilful absence was the cause assigned for the divorce having been granted W. H. Sanders against his wife Mozelle Sanders. It was agreed with the court that the plaintiff pay the counsel fees of the defendant and he is also oredred to pay his wife $25 per month for eight months, begining May 1.

George S. Rumberger remained away from his wife, Grace Rumberger, for three years, and she was granted a divorce on the grounds of wilful absence.

CHURCH TRUSTEES SPLIT ON SALE

Because Frank Bricker, a member of the board of trustees of St. Jacob's Reformed church, it is said, refused to be a party to the sale of a part of a farm the congregation owns on the Lisbon-Salem road after the congregation had instructed the trustees to sell the property, the matter has now reached the courts.

A petition has been filed in common pleas court by Attorney George T. Farrell in behalf of Frank Speaker and Paul W. Sitler, the other two members of the board of trustees, asking the court to designate under what terms the property might be sold.

Hudson-Essex Builds 250,000 Coaches In Three Years

These cars illustrate three phases of automobile progress. Upperleft shows first Hudson car ever built — without top, without windshield, without many things motorists have today. The upper right is the famous first Essex coach — the grand-daddy of the closed-cars-at-open-car-prices idea. Below is a special photograph of the 250,000th coach built just a few days ago.

A quarter of a million coaches in three years!

This is the record reported by the Hudson Motor Car Co., which originated the coach type of car late in 1921. Up to that time enclosed cars had cost the motorist about $1,000 more than an open one. Now open and enclosed ones sell at about the same figure. Hudson-Essex has maintained its leadership by offering the coaches at actually less than the touring cars.

Nine out of every ten Hudson-Essex cars made is a coach. This is said to be the greatest example of specialization in the motor car industry. Just recently the 250,000th coach was made.

tends to regulate everything. Under the American regime it developes that missionaries have great power with an American governor, and when Davidson goes to that official to demand that Sadie be sent back to the states to serve out her sentence, the governor quickly, although reluctantly consents. It is then, that a complication arises which causes the preacher to commit suicide. The girl, who apparently became imbued with the religious ideas of her prosecutor goes back to her old life, and turns on her phonograph which had been stilled for several days, as the curtain falls.

'RAIN,' NEW YORK HIT, IS COMING

Broadway's Biggest Success at Ceramic Thursday.

"Rain" the play which has been the biggest success on Broadway for a decade and which brought forth a torrent of comment from New York reviewers when it was produced at the Maxine Elliott theatre over two years ago, is to be presented at the Ceramic theatre next Thursday evening, by Sam H. Harris, who sponsored it during its metropolitan engagement.

It is what might be called a drama of human souls and it will be remembered it first appeared as a short story in one of the popular magazines written by W. Somerset Maugham and is also contained in a volume of his short stories, being called "Miss Thompson."

Although Maugham is a playwright himself, and a successful one, it seems that it did not occur to him that it contained material for stage purposes. Two aspiring young playwrights, John Colton and Clemence Randolph, however, did see these possibilities and secured permission from the author of "Miss Thompson" to dramatise it with the surprising result that it at once became a furore, under the title of "Rain."

The scenes are laid at Pago Pago, on the Island of Tutuila, one of the many islands in the South Seas, about the only one that is under the domination of the United States. The characters are both native and whites—the two principal ones as far as the story are concerned being Sadie Thompson, a scarlet woman who has come there to escape from a prison sentence in America and the Rev. Alfred Davidson, a missionary, who is about to take up his life's work on the island. The preacher is a zealous and uncompromising disciple of his religion, who most characteristically in-

Italian Village In Alps Claims Low Death Rate

MILAN, April.—The city of Piode, in the Italian Alps, claims the world's lowest mortality record. No deaths have occurred for more than a year, and it is said that during the past ten years, only five inhabitants have died, and one of these by his own hand.

Piode's claim was made after the village of Salecchio, also in the mountainous sections of Italy, declared itself the healthiest spot on earth, due to the fact that no deaths had occurred there in an extraordinary length of time.

Wife Beaters Face Whipping Post Under Old Maryland Law

BALTIMORE—Wife beaters who appear before Judge Henry Duffy, in criminal court here, in future will receive more than a tongue-lashing for sentence—they will receive a whiplashing. The judge made known his intention after hearing the case of Mrs. Edda Simmons against her husband, Robert.

Mrs. Simmons testified her husband beat and kicked her because she didn't give him enough money out of her pay envelope. Judge Duffy gave Simmons six months in the house of correction.

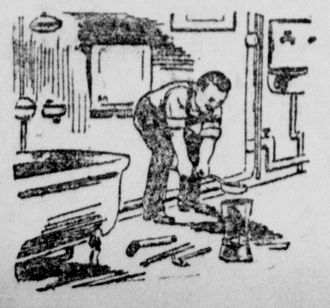

"The next wife beater who comes before me," said the judge, "will be surprised to learn I have revived the use of the whipping post in Maryland."

The judge will find it easy to make good his threat, as the official whipping post, long regarded as a relic of other days, still finds in the yard at city jail, ready for the next victim to receive the proverbial "thirty lashes."

Feel All Worn Out?

ARE you dragging around day after day with a dull, constant backache? Do you feel stiff and achy; weak, nervous—all played out?

You should know, then, that these troubles are often due to imperfect kidney action. When the kidneys lag, there's slow poisoning of blood and nerves and an upsetting of the whole system. Your back aches; you have sharp, stabbing pains, headaches, dizzy spells, and often annoying kidney irregularities.

If your kidneys are inactive, help them with a tested diuretic. Use Doan's Pills. They are recommended the world over. Ask your neighbor!

Here is East Liverpool Proof:

Mrs. Eliza Pickering, 225 W. 2nd St., says: "My back ached terribly and I felt tired and all dragged out. There was a good deal of pain in my left side and my kidneys were inactive. I used Doan's Pills and they soon had me feeling much better."

HOME TRAINING

Edsol Ford's Devotion to Duty.

"We who know the circumstances believe that you are needed here," said Rev. Marquis to Edsol Ford during the World war, "but the public is ignorant of the circumstances requiring your presence here and you are subject to unjust criticism. I believe if all the facts were put before the authorities at Washington you would be given an appointment in connection with military service in this district that would permit your keeping in close touch with the affairs here."

Edsol made quick reply, "I refuse absolutely to let any one take such action in my behalf. I honestly believe that I can render my best and most valuable service here. But if not here in connection with this business—then in France.

"I want no stay-at-home appointment. I will accept none. I do not want to don a uniform with the assurance that I will be expected to do nothing but sit in a swivel chair.

"There is one job in this war I do not want and I will not take, and that is the job of the rich man's son. If the authorities in whose hands my case is resting, feel that I am mistaken in my belief that I can render my best service here, then I would prefer the trenches to a swivel chair."

SERMONOGRAMS

Self-seeking is always a disappointing adventure.

Self is the biggest enemy most men have to deal with.

Sunday is not a day for holiday pleasures but for holy privileges.

The cloud "no bigger than a man's hand" satisfied Elijah that his prayer was answered. With too many of us the answer must loom large before it is recognized as such.

The home to which we look forward an equal chance for all on every side, is a city that "lieth foursquare" with an equal chance for all on every side. The lives of all who would enter into it must be fashioned in the same manner.

We complain that life is hard, yet the truly hard days — days of grief and pain and misfortune—are not in the majority. The peaceful, uneventful, quiet days and hours make up the most of existence, though we forget to count them or to be thankful for them.

"The least-said - soonest - mended" maxim is not always true. There is a possibility of saying entirely too little of love and praise to some dear worker at our side, and then find it impossible through long years of regret to amend the results of our selfish silence.

And you will remember that love is not getting, but giving; not a wild dream of pleasure and a madness of desire; oh no, love is not that; it is goodness and honor and peace and pure living—yes, love is that; and it is the best thing in the world, and the thing that lives longest.—Van Dyke.

The world is too sweet and fair to darken it with clouds of anger. This life is too short and precious to waste it in bearing that heaviest of all burdens, a grudge. Forgive and forget if you can; but forgive anyway; and pray heartily and kindly for all men, for thus only shall we be the children of our Father who maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good, and sendeth rain on the just and on the unjust.—Van Dyke.

Character is not measured by words and deeds alone. It would be comparative easy to gain a strong and clear character if that were only a question of the control we could exercise over what we say and do. Every man ought to know that his attainments in character are measured by what he is when he is alone with his thoughts. To what does his mind turn when not bent upon daily work? Does he cherish thoughts that would ruin him if expressed? Does he have a subtle enjoyment, a secret pleasure, in seeing or hearing what he would not wish to disclose to his most respected friends? Character is as deep as the man himself, alone and unchallenged by the opinions of others—Charles G. Trumbull.

MRS. WM. BUTTS WAS VERY SICK

Gives Full Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for Remarkable Recovery

Wellston, O.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to make me strong. I was troubled with my back and sides hurting me till I could not do my work, and whenever I caught cold it made me irregular. Since I have taken the Vegetable Compound my side and back don't bother me and I can do my housework and care for my children now, where before I did not feel like doing anything or going around. After my first child was born about four years ago I saw an advertisement in the paper about the Vegetable Compound. I knew it would help me, but I was afraid to try it because people said it would help you to have children and I knew I was having children fast enough. But I thought if it would help me it would be better to have a whole house full of children and have good health. I became stronger from taking it and my husband says I look like a live woman instead of a dead one. When Spring comes I am going to take your Blood Medicine as I am very thin. I will answer letters from any woman who wishes to ask about your medicine."—Mrs. WILLIAM BUTTS, Wellston, Ohio.

Roosevelt said of him: "I would rather be on the platform with Tom Skeyhill than any man I know."

The Literary Digest said: "He's the sort of a man worth reading about."

The New York Globe said: "Skeyhill is the most inspiring speaker that has ever appeared at the Metropolitan Opera House."

So much for the Tom Skeyhill of war days—a young Australian soldier who went through war's Hell at the Dardanelles and came out stone-blind. For two years he lived in unfathomable darkness a thousand times worse than the darkness of night—and suddenly he recovered his sight through the skill of a Washington specialist. But, mark you, during these two years Skeyhill refused to quit—and "carried on" in war service work on the platform, and became a famous speaker.

With the restlessness of the soldier, he returned to Europe in the winter of 1920 to visit Russia and study its chaos. He was refused a passport at New York City by the then Soviet Ambassador Martens, but after "running the lines" to get in, he visited the principal cities of Russia on a forged passport.

He studied Bolshevism first hand. He talked with leaders of the present regime—and the old school as well. With his characteristic soldier spirit, he got just what he went after and brought home the subject matter for his lecture, "Soviet Russia Today."

In the fall of 1922 Mr. Skeyhill again visited Europe, gathering the latest facts on conditions which he has compiled and gives with his own impressions in his newest lecture, "The New Renaissance of European Civilization." The young lecturer has a first hand knowledge of European and Asiatic problems which are so vitally affecting us today. This major theme is a great spiritual message for the youth of the world, calling upon them to rise up and throw down the old war mongers and the reactionaries who are imperiling this civilization.

Was Jesus God?

millions now living will never die . . . . .

Ecclesiastical leaders of Christendom are hopelessly divided.

They preach God the stern, unrelenting one, Jesus as merciful and kind, but still contend that both are one in person. Jesus said that He came to do His Father's will—to reconcile the world to God through Himself.

His death as a man to provide the ransom price for Adam and his offspring is comprehensible, but the doctrine of Jesus as incarnate God is confusing and unscriptural. On the work of "the man Christ Jesus" rests Jehovah's plan for liberty, happiness and everlasting life for the human family.

Heart Trouble Proves Fatal to Brooklyn Club President

EBBETS FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL ROOM BY NURSE

Brilliant Baseball Career of 43 Years Brought to an End.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Charles H. Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn National baseball club, died today of heart disease in his suite at the Waldorf Astoria hotel.

Ebbets fell into a deep slumber about 11 o'clock last night. No one was with him at the time of his death. A nurse who entered the sick room shortly after 6 o'clock this morning, found Ebbets dead and immediately summoned members of his family.

Mr. Ebbets had been a sufferer from heart trouble, complicated by asthma, for some time.

His condition was not believed serious a few weeks ago.

Ebbets' health had not been of the best for the past year. His condition made it imperative that he go South during the winter. He spent the winter in Clearwater, Fla., training camp of his ball club, where he maintained a winter home.

He was so ill at Clearwater that he was forced to give up playing golf, his favorite pastime, outside of his love for baseball.

He had not been active in a business way in the last year. He made only one appearance at a baseball meeting during the winter, in December, when he attended the annual meeting of the National Association of Profesional Baseball Clubs at Hartford, Conn.

Ebbets had been an active figure in baseball for 43 years. He began his baseball career as secretary and then for 27 years was president of the Brooklyn club.

His career, highly colorful and spectacular, covered the whole scope of baseball development from the stage of an afternoon pastime to one of the country's great institutions. He became associated with the Brooklyn club in 1883, having accepted the position of secretary to Charles Byrne. Ebbets was, at the time of his death, the senior member of the National league.

Always aggressive, Ebbets was ever a prominent figure. His fiery characteristics and progressive ideas did not always find favor with his colleagues, and he became entangled in numerous controversies.

His honesty and sincerity of purpose, however, always got him a respectful hearing. Many of the laws and rules of the game were due directly and indirectly to his persistency.

Financial independence did not come to the "Squire" until late in life—after the erection of Ebbets field in 1913, and his friends pointed to it as the crowning achievement of Ebbets' career. He had built his stadium at a time when baseball interest in Brooklyn was at a low ebb.

In 1898 Ebbets succeeded Byrne as president of the Brooklyn club, Byrne having died. It was at a trying period when finances were low and the teams representing Brooklyn were uniformly unsuccessful. It was necessary to economize that Ebbets personally managed the field work of the team for a part of 1898.

The turning point for the better came with the appointment of Wilbert Robinson as manager in 1914. New capital was brought into the enterprise through the affiliation of the McKeever brothers, Stephen W. and Edward J. In 1916 Robinson produced a pennant winner. This freed the club from financial worry and since then, together with Sunday baseball and another pennant, Ebbets and his partners accumulated a fortune.

Six Clubs Qualify For League Berths

Newell, Chester, Wellsville, and Three City Teams Win Places in City Industrial Circuit.

FILING the necessary financial forfeits, six district baseball clubs qualified last night for memberships in the City Industrial league at a meeting of baseball fans in the chamber of commerce rooms.

Several other local clubs, it was announced, are considering places in the circuit. Whether additions to the present membership will be approved will be decided at a session which will be held next week.

The teams taking the preliminary steps for berths in the loop included Trotter-Chevrolet, Laughlin Newell, Babcock and Wilcox, Knowles, Taylor and Knowles, Chester and Wellsville.

The allotment of players and other preliminaries will be made by the club managers following several caucuses to be held before the next meeting of the league.

The team managers include John Fowler, of Trotter-Chevrolet; Barney Bricelin, of the Newell Laughlins; J. Quinn, Babcock-Wilcox; Harry Simcox, of Knowles, Taylor and Knowles; Frank Riley, of Chester, and Dewey Morgan, Wellsville.

Tagging The Bases

The lioness only has one cub, but it is a lion. Joe Judge only got two hits, but one of them was a homer off Shawkey with the bases filled and the Senators made it three out of four by beating the Yankees, 6 to 1.

Continuing their shelling of enemy sharp shooters, the Cubs again beat the Pirates, 9 to 6, home runs by Statz and Hartnett, the latter's fourth in three days, being the deciding feature.

"After you, my dear Gaston," said Joe Shaute of Cleveland, but forgot his manners and stepped in front of the St. Louis pitcher to a 1 to 0 decision in the best pitched game of the season to date.

Blankenship and Lyons had nothing but an empty sleeve and the Tigers socked their way to a 9 to 3 verdict over the White Sox.

Wayland Dean enjoyed one of those personal triumphs at Boston. He not only shut the Braves right out, 2 to 0, but drove in the first run with a single.

The rampant Reds finally were brought up short by the Cardinals, 8 to 6, when two hits and an error staked the Rickey outfit to a pair of runs in the eleventh.

Groves, making his second start of the season, again was wilder than a week's growth and the Red Sox finally beat the Athletics, 4 to 3, in a game curtailed by rain.

Cardinals Cop Final Contest With Redlegs

CINCINNATI, April 18.—St. Louis broke Cincinnati's winning streak of three straight games by taking the final game of the series yesterday in 11 innings, 8 to 6.

The Reds, coming from behind, made the score 6-6 in the seventh. Two hits and a muffed throw gave the Cardinals two runs and the game in the eleventh.

Acmes To Practice.

The Acme baseball club will practice Monday evening at 5 o'clock, officials announced today. The following players are asked to report: Mart Dyer, Leslie Gorney, Otis Amos, Charles Mackey, Charles Dyer, Obbet Scott, Joseph Kinney, Elmer Carey, Ray Sayres, James Manypenny, Harold Amos and Duard Kibble. team managers looking for games are asked to phone Charles Dyer, manager, 1801-M.

Scholastics Crush Newell Squad, 14-2

English Allows West Virginia Tossers Five Scattered Blows and Strikes Out Eight.

Clubbing the offerings of Campbell and Drumm all over the lot, the East Liverpool Scholastics hung up their second victory yesterday afternoon when they crushed the Newell high school nine by a 14 to 2 tally.

Paul English, twirling for the Scholastics, let the Newell tossers down with five scattered hits. He fanned eight of the enemy.

Campbell started the game for the Hancock countians but was driven to the showers in the third, Drumm taking his place in the box.

Captain "Chuck" McConville and Schneidmiller were the batting heroes of the clash, McConville pasting out two doubles and an infield smack in five times up. Schneidmiller straightened the Newell heaver's curves for two doubles and a single.

The Scholastics scored two in the first frame when Dawson walked and went home on McConville's double past third. Schneidmiller's single scored McConville. One hit and five Newell errors were responsible for another run for the Scholastics in the second, and in the third, the locals counted five more on two doubles and four singles. Campbell was derricked and Drumm faced the opposition bats. The locals added another run in the fourth, one in the sixth and three more in the seventh when Dawson hit for two sacks, McConville beat out an infield hit and both advanced on a passed ball. P. English walked, filling the sacks, and Schneidmiller cleaned the paths with a slashing two-bagger to center.

Newell scored a run in the third, Laneve reaching first on Schneidmiller's error. He stole second and went home on Pugh's two sacker. The Newell lads tallied their second and final run in the fourth.

Hartnett Drives Out Homer and Cubs Win

CHICAGO, April 18. — Home run smashes by Statz and Hartnett, the fourth of the kind by the latter in three games, featured the final game of the series with the Pirates, won by the Cubs, 9 to 6, yesterday.

Miller had a perfect day at bat with four hits in four times up.

RICKARD LAYS HIS PLANS FOR DEMPSEY BOUT

Promoter Assured Champion Has Not Broken With Kearns.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Reassured by Jack Dempsey's signed statement from Los Angeles, denying a contemplated break in his relations with Jack Kearns, the champion's man of business, Tex Rickard began laying active plans today for a Dempsey meeting hereabouts this summer. Rickard has Tom Gibbons in mind as the party of the second part but is prepared to shift his attention to Harry Wills in the event that the New York State Athletic commission adheres to its determination to make Dempsey accept Wills' defi.

The enterprise, if satisfactorily concluded will be Rickard's one and only big shot of the outdoor season.

Those close to the promoter declare that he has allowed others to step in and grab Gibbons and Tuney, Wills and Weinert and other matches of comparative prominence because he is concentrating on a heavyweight championship bout and none other. Rickard, they say, will be very active next week when Dempsey arrives in New York enroute upon a honeymoon tour of Europe.

There will be a showdown before the champion sails, and many believe that Rickard and Dempsey will reach a thorough understanding on the immediate future. The general idea here is that Kearns may be in the background during the negotiations, Dempsey being a strong Rickard man while Kearns has given indications of shifting his allegiance elsewhere. This difference of opinion on Rickard, it is said, has been more than a minor factor in the strained relations believed to have existed between the champion and his manager.

It is believed to be one of the reasons Kearns did nothing about the commission's ultimatum on Wills while here several weeks ago. He knew Dempsey wanted Rickard and he himself desired to do business elsewhere. Charles L. Henderson, in the throes of building a mammoth bowl at Long Island City is understood to be Kearns' choice of promoter. Henderson is said to have made Kearns an offer that no sane man would refuse. It is not in actual dollars, but in terms of successive percentages that would net Dempsey and Kearns close to $800,000 for a Wills match. Henderson is not interested in Gibbons for Championship purposes.

Chesterfield's popularity was won on taste alone

Put a ring around that word —and don't forget it!

Taste! That one word explains Chesterfield's enormous popularity. "They satisfy," because they contain the richest, mellowest tobaccos that money can buy. And they're mild, because these tobaccos are blended in just the right proportions for taste and aroma. It's a blend of unique character and it can't be copied!

No wonder smokers everywhere are changing from all kinds of cigarettes to Chesterfield.

Tartans Start Grid Practice Next Week

PITTSBURGH, April 18.—Carnegie Tech will start spring football practice next week with a squad of 50 or more candidates, making the third successive year that the Tartan gridders have worked out in the spring. Head Coach Steffen will outline his plans for the coming season while he is here over the week-end. Practice sessions will continue daily until the end of April in charge of Assistant Coaches Waddell and Marks.

Already numerous entries have been received by Student Manager E. C. Frazier for Carnegie's ninth annual interscholastic track and field meet May 9. It is announced everything is in readiness for the greatest meet in the Skibos' history.

Carnegie opened her home baseball season on Wednesday by defeating the strong Juniata college nine, 8-6. Paul Conrad, pitching ace of the Tartans, was chosen captain for the remainder of the year. He is a senior in commercial engineering, and a graduate of Oil City high school. Conrad made his letter in basketball, and is a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

Athletics' Winning Streak is Broken up

PHILADELPHIA, April 18. — The Boston Red Sox broke the Philadelphia Americans' winning streak and won their first game of the season yesterday, 4 to 3. Rain halted the game after the Athletics' half of the fifth inning.

Lefty Groves, Connie Mack's expensive hurler, again tried to tame the Red Sox, but once again his wildness forced him to the side lines.

Judge Sweeps Sacks And Nats Win Again

NEW YORK, April 18.—Joe Judge, Washington first baseman, featured in a 6 to 1 victory for the Nats over the New York Yankees yesterday, giving the world's champions a three to one edge in the first series of the season. Judge cleared the bases in the fourth with his second home run in two days.

Dutch Ruether, former Brooklyn left hander, had much the better of his contest with Bob Shawkey, of the Yankees.

Giants Blank Boston And Capture Series

BOSTON, April 18.—Dean held Boston to four hits yesterday and the Giants won, 2 to 0, giving them a victory in their opening series of the championship season, two games to one.

Dean's single in the fifth scored Devine, who had doubled, with the first run. Singles by Terry and Wilson and Jackson's sacrifice fly gave New York its other run in the ninth.

Sox Pitchers Unable To Stop Cobb's Crew

DETROIT, April 18. — Chicago's pitchers were numerous and ineffective and Detroit won the final game of the series, 9 to 3.

Dauss, taking full advantage of the dark day, was the first pitcher to start and finish a game thus far. He allowed runs in three innings, one a homer by Kamm. Blankenship and Lyons were touched for five runs in the first.

Midland Club in Field.

The Crucible Tigers baseball club, of Midland, Pa., formerly known as the Big Four, has organized its forces for the coming campaign with a number of outstanding players of western Pennsylvania in the ranks, according to announcement today by Manager William Daniels.

Manager Daniels is booking games for the season and would like to hear from Chester, East Liverpool or any other team in the Tri-State district.

For dates and other information, teams are requested to write to Benjamin Cushenberry, secretary, 327 Pennsylvania avenue, Midland.

Georgetown Wants Games.

The Georgetown independent baseball club has organized for the coming season with one of the fast clubs in the district. The Independents would like to book games with all first class clubs and at present are looking for an attraction for their opening date on May 2. Games can be arranged by calling C. L. Childs, business manager, by phone 363-J.

He Wants His Smoke More Than Wife; Files Action for Divorce

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April—Captain Arthur Marshall, of Engine Company 4, likes to smoke; but when he was off duty and wanted to smoke he had to duck down cellar. His wife forbade him to smoke his pipe in the house proper because smoke discolored the curtains and interfered with her health, he declared in court.

So Captain Marshall decided he would seek a divorce and filed suit in Middlesex Superior Court charging his wife, Orianna, with desertion.

Mrs. Marshall has filed a cross-suit asking separation on the grounds of cruelty.

Gas Valve Patented.

BRIDGEPORT—Leonard Sams and Joseph Holler have received a patent on a valve designed to prevent gas explosions by closing house mains when the gas supply fails. Stomach Distress?

"I have never taken a medicine that I can so highly recommend for indigestion and stomach trouble as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I was all run down in health, my food just would not digest, gas would form, and it would feel as if I had a hard lump in my stomach. I suffered great distress and got so weak and run down that I could scarcely drag myself around. I was advised to take the "Golden Medical Discovery," which I did, and it relieved me of all stomach trouble. I could eat anything I wished without distress. The "Discovery" built me up in health all over. Aside from being good for the stomach, it is a wonderful building tonic and blood medicine."—Mrs. Catherine Snyder, 3232 N. Erie street, Toledo.

Correct your stomach and improve your health with this "Discovery" of Dr. Pierce's. Strength and vigorous vitality will follow. Write Dr. Pierce, President Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice or send 10c for trial pkg. tablets.
